PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Gifford Pinchot, gaunt, gray-haired veteran of political wars, and John M. Hemphill, rather youthful veteran of the World War, awaited a verdict today on their sensational race for the governorship of Pennsylvania from some 2,000,000 voters who went to the polls to elect a whole state ticket, a U. S. senator and 36 members of the National House of Representatives.

To Shatter Precedent.

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 4.—Mr. Coolidge administered last rites for his alma mater, the Republican party. To offset him I have been asked to give a word of cheer to the party of Jefferson, Raskob, Heflin and Borah.

Mr. Coolidge and I are both non-combatants; we are watching the battle intrenched behind our typewriters; our hearts are not in our advice, for no matter which one loses, we will be working.

My advice is keep the Republicans in power, otherwise you will add to the unemployment, for if you throw them out there is nothing else they can do, while a Democrat must be able to make a living out of office, otherwise he would not be living.

OIL IS NOW SLOWLY
BURNING SELF OUT

(International News Service)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 4.—Under control, the blazing film of oil on the North Canadian river appeared to be burning itself out today as firemen kept a close watch.

Fed by the Morgan oil gusher which was brought under control Sunday, the river accumulated a heavy deposit of the crude oil. The oil was ignited late yesterday, creating a blazing inferno which destroyed two small bridges on country roads, one near Spencer, the other near McCloud, east of Oklahoma City.

The first fire from the oil on the river was about seven miles east of the city. The river goes under several concrete bridges of the main state highway between Oklahoma City and Shawnee, but these are believed to be fireproof and no damage was expected as the flames diminished.

Some timber along the river's edge was burned. The Harrah Power plant, which supplies Oklahoma City with most of its electric current, was threatened by the blaze. The Stout well, before it was harnessed, tossed out 60,000 barrels of crude oil daily and 100,000,000 cubic feet of gas according to estimates.

First Complete Vote Is "Dry"

NEW ASHFORD, Mass., Nov. 4.—Citizens of this little Berkshire Hills town today continued to lead the nation in reporting a total election vote.

In the glare of kerosene lamps, polls were opened at 5:45 a. m., and every man and woman of the thirty-six registered voters, had cast their ballots by 6:35 a. m., when the polls were closed.

Half an hour later the result of the vote of the town complete was known. It was:

United States Senator: Butler, (R) 29; Coolidge, (D) 4.

Governor: Allen, (R) 29; Ely, (D) 7.

Referendum on question of repeal of Baby Volstead Law: Yes, 11, No, 19, a strong "dry" vote.

Following the installation ceremonies of both organizations, Past Adjutant Ralph Montgomery was called to the rostrum and after recalling the splendid work done by Past Commander James A. Election To Parallel State Result In 1890

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—By a strange coincidence, the voters of Pennsylvania must go back to the campaign of 1890 to find a precedent for the election today of either Gifford Pinchot, dry Republican, or John M. Hemphill, wet Liberal-Democrat.

If Pinchot is elected, it will be the first time since 1890 that a former governor has been re-elected to that office. If he wins, Pinchot will be the second former governor re-elected since the Pennsylvania constitution was amended in 1882 making the incumbent ineligible to succeed himself.

If Hemphill is elected, it will be the first time since 1890 that a Democrat has been elected to that office. If he wins, Hemphill will be the second Democrat elected governor since the state constitution was amended in 1882.

By coincidence, Robert A. Pattison, a Democrat, was re-elected governor in 1890, after having served a previous term from 1882 to 1886.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—John W. citizen went to the polls almost around the clock in today's voting. The polls opened in some Massachusetts towns as early as 5:45 a. m., before daylight. Illinois started at 5 a. m.

The last polls to close tonight will be in the state of Washington where the hour is 11 p. m. it will be 2 a. m. in the east before Washington concludes balloting.

Most of the other states range from 6 to 9 a. m. opening, and from 5 to 9 p. m. closing.

There will be no official returns from Kentucky tonight, a new and so-called "honest election law" providing that the ballot boxes be sealed until 9 a. m. on Wednesday morning. The senatorial and congressional contests in the blue grass state are particularly close.

Illinois Voters May Set Record At Polls Today

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Fair weather conditions throughout the state combined with white-hot partisanship today to bring out what political experts believe will be a record off-year vote for Illinois.

In Chicago, it was estimated that 300,000 ballots had been cast by noon. Correspondingly large reports were received from all parts of the state. Between 800,000 and 900,000 voters will go to the polls in the city before the day is over, according to an estimate by the board of election commissioners.

Interest was centered in the two leading senatorship contenders, James Hamilton Lewis, wet Democrat, and Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, personally dry Republican, with Chicago's liberal tendencies in mind, observers declared the balance of urban against rural votes may determine the outcome.

Illinois today was also deciding its attitude toward prohibition. Mrs. McCormick has declared she will abide by the results of the referendum.

Youth Confesses Murdering Of Two Chicago Gangsters

Youngster Tells Police That He Killed Two Gangsters Who Attacked Him

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Edward Kotowski, a mild-spoken youth of 20, today confessed the murder of two gangsters who, he said, tried to compel him to remain in a drinking party.

The bodies, identified as those of William Sierra and Frank Zmuro, were found in Sierra's beer flat Sunday morning. Police at that time were of the opinion that the two men were slain by rivals in the liquor racket.

Kotowski gave himself up to police, saying he could remain silent about the double murder no longer. He said he had known the pair for some time and Saturday night joined them in a drinking party.

An altercation arose when they tried to compel him to get drunk, he said. Sierra drew a pistol and fired at him, whereupon the youth took the weapon away from him and shot both men as they tried to overpower him.

Millions Are Voting Throughout Country In "Test" Election

Prestige Of Hoover Admin-

In Almost Entire Country

Estimate 25,000,000 Will Cast Ballots—Many Congressional Seats
Sought

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The evidence, in the argument closed, the case of Republican versus Democrat went to the jury on the American electorate today.

Upon the verdict rendered hinges the prestige of the Hoover administration, the make-up of the 72nd congress, the complexion of state governments in 34 states, the fate of thousands of aspirants for smaller offices, and new light upon the growing anti-prohibition sentiment which has been so pronounced since 1928.

And, significantly enough, the decision may have a vital bearing on the important presidential campaign two years hence, for candidates are involved today that are bound to affect the battle in 1932.

Republicans Gloomy
Probably close to 25,000,000 jurists will participate in today's decision. Scattered through 47 states, in cities, towns and farms, the record disclosed by the ballot boxes tonight will afford an illuminating insight into a cross-section of American opinion.

That sweeping Democratic gains will be registered in all parts of the country is conceded. The Republicans admit it rather gloomily; the Democrats boast of it. The principal question is the extent of the sweep. The Republicans hope to check it just short of giving the Democrats control of the next senate and house. They are confident of keeping the senate. Of the house they are not so certain; in fact, some Republican leaders expect to lose it.

Voting Is Heavy In Massachusetts

William M. Butler Seeks Election To Senate Over Coolidge, Wringing Wet

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—A remarkably heavy vote was forecast in today's election in Massachusetts, with early reports showing voters flocking to the polls after a campaign in which both the Republicans and Democrats unleashed their heaviest artillery.

Outstanding is the fight of William M. Butler, wealthy mill owner, friend and political manager of Calvin Coolidge and an avowed dry, to return to the United States Senate. He is opposed by Marcus A. Coolidge, also a wealthy manufacturer and a wet.

The prohibition issue provided all contests. Both national and state. Joseph B. Ely, Democratic candidate for governor, is frankly wet, while Gov. Frank G. Allen upholds prohibition.

Several close congressional contests were expected, with the Democrats hopeful of ousting at least four Republican incumbents.

Voters Are Slow Going To Polls

New Castle Voters Will Cast
Most Ballots Late
In Day

WEATHER IS FINE
FOR ELECTION DAY

With ideal weather prevailing, New Castle voters were yet rather inclined to delay voting before noon today. The proportion of votes cast over the city seemed to be about 15 percent of the registration at noon and the registration is woefully light.

The usual run of precincts having 200 registered was between 40 and 60 with a few precincts showing better than that. The noon hour rush was expected to add considerably to the total, and at four o'clock the final rush will probably start.

There are few watchers at the polls, and there seems to be a lethargy over the entire election which may mean an exceptionally late vote. The rural precincts reported a fair vote out.

The polls will close at seven o'clock tonight and just as soon after that as it is possible to get returns, The News will begin giving them out. It is probable that no returns will be in before nine o'clock.

Rain Is Falling In Eastern Area Of Pennsylvania

Shortly Before 10 O'clock This Morning Rain Sweeps Down On Eastern Section

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Rain started falling over the eastern half of Pennsylvania this morning, greatly hampering the casting of ballots in the isolated rural districts. The showers are expected to result in a decided drop in the number of votes predicted in many districts. Incidentally veteran political observers believed the showers would affect Gifford Pinchot's supporters more than those of his opponent John M. Humphill as the latter's following is reported greater in the rural districts. Accompanied by a stiff northeast wind the showers began falling in the Philadelphia area shortly before 10 a. m. Winds of gale force were reported along the Atlantic seaboard. A 40-mile an hour wind whipping Atlantic City and a 42-mile an hour wind reported at Baltimore. A severe coastal storm was sweeping Cape Hatteras and vicinity.

Pittsburgh Police Hold Detroit Man For Investigation

Checks, Mortgages And Securities Found On Man Will Be Investigated

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4.—Detectives today were holding Eddie Baker, 40, of Federal street, Detroit, while they investigate the source of checks, mortgages, and securities valued at $50,000 in his possession when arrested yesterday while attempting to cash a check in a downtown bank. Payment on the check which Baker sought to cash was ordered stopped after it was reported missing from the mailbox of J. D. Hofels of Cleveland, to whom it was made out. The prisoner refused to tell investigators how he obtained the securities, they reported. City Detectives Walter Monaghan and Thomas Morgan, who took the man into custody, said he has many aliases. When questioned he admitted that he had a Cleveland address also on 4942 Howard street. The check refused by bank officials was issued by the Townsend Co. of New Brighton, Pa., for the amount of $208.

Safety First Drawing Given Wide Publicity in System Newspaper

So well did the idea strike the editor of the western region edition that he also published the cartoon, with minor revisions. The papers go into Pennsylvania homes all over the system.

STAR LORE THE IMPORTANT POSITION OF PISCES

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter
Pisces (the fishes) twelfth constellation of the zodiac, is in ascendancy in November. It is best found by locating a V shaped figure of faint stars under the Square of Pegasus. Pisces is made very important because a long portion of the ecliptic extends through it, and still more so because it is in Pisces the sun crosses the equator March 21—the Vernal Equinox. If one will follow down from the east side of the Square of Pegasus a distance equivalent to the length of that side of the square, he will then be resting his eye close on that point in the sky that marks the Vernal Equinox.

cedent prosperity two years ago, the country has dropped into business depression with a rather sickening descent; city streets are filled with unemployed; bread-lines are daily spectacles in most of the industrial centers, and out where the prairies begin there is unrest and dissatisfaction because wheat and other grains are at the lowest point in a quarter of a century.

In similar situations in American political history, the electorate has always turned savagely upon the party in power as the only means of expressing its president and its dissatisfaction. If history repeats, as the Democrats assert it will, today may witness one of the most violent turn-overs in recent years. The Republican contend, however, that times have changed since the "panic" of other days. Through the new agency of the radio, there has been nightly poured into millions of American homes the story that the administration cannot be held responsible for the depression; that the country is merely suffering from a natural economic condition that is world-wide in scope, and that the real danger in times like these lies in "swapping horses in the middle of the stream."

In Ohio.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 4.—With the fan-fare of political oratory still ringing in their ears, voters of the Buckeye state marched to the polls today to mark their ballots as a finale to the stirring campaign that has gripped Ohio for weeks.

Chief interest of the state's electorate was centered in the senatorial race between Robert J. Bulker, Democrat, running on a platform advocating prohibition repeal, and U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican. Ashtabula, the spectacular senatorial fight, Ohioans were provided with the opportunity to return or repudiate Governor Myers V. Cooper, Republican, who is opposed by George White, Democrat.

In Idaho.
BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 4.—With Senator William E. Borah, Republican, regarded as certain to be returned to the United States senate over his Democratic opponent, Joseph Tyler, interest in Idaho centered today on one of the hottest gubernatorial campaigns since 1916. John McMurray, Republican, and C. Ben Rice, Democrat, were each claiming victory in the governorship race as the voters went to the polls today.

In addition to governor a full ticket of state officers were up for election.

LaFollette Sure Winner.
MADEIRA, Nov. 4.—Election of Philip F. LaFollette, Republican to the governorship, was regarded as certain today as Wisconsin trooped to the polls. His Democratic opponent, Charles E. Hammersley, was given only an outside chance to win by political experts.

Eleven members of the house of representatives also were being elected today. The Wisconsin delegation to the house is solid Republican and no change is expected this year.

In Alabama.
MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 4.—A strange political today was witnessed in Alabama today as voters went to the polls to decide, among other things, whether Senator J. Thomas Healin will retain his seat in congress.

The veteran Democratic officeholder is not running under the Democratic banner this year, turned out of his party for his desertion in the 1928 presidential campaign. He is running against the Democratic nominee, John M. Bankhead, as an "Independent Jeffersonian."

For more than 30 years the Democratic nomination to election, and the Republican ticket has been but a gesture. This year, however, the Republican leaders have refrained from putting a ticket in the field and are supporting the Jeffersonians or "Hoovercrats."

Montana Vote Is Heavy.
HELENA, Mont., Nov. 4.—A record vote is expected today as Montana voters go to the polls to choose a United States senator, congressman and state officers.

Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, remains the favorite to succeed himself to the senate over Judge Albert J. Galen, former justice of the state supreme court, his Republican opponent.

In California
(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—More than a million California voters were expected to cast their votes today for governor, state officers, 11 congressmen and decide the fate of bond issue totaling nearly $100,000,000 as well as more than a score of issues submitted on referendum.

With Republican registration outnumbering Democratic registration more than three and a half to one, Republican leaders predicted a landslide, betting being even that Major James Rolph, Jr., San Francisco Republican candidate for governor would win over his Democratic opponent, Milton K. Young of Los Angeles by 375,000 votes.

California was expected to return a delegation of ten Republicans and one Democrat to the seventy-second congress, there being contests in but two districts.

In Rhode Island
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 4.—The "Battle of Millionaires" for a seat in the senate between Sen. Jesse H. Metcalf (R) and former Sen. Peter Goelet Gerry (D) and a referendum on prohibition enlivened the election in Little Rhode Island today.

The senatorial contest will be close it was generally predicted. Both sides claimed victory.

Gov. Norman S. Case is seeking re-election against Theodore P. Green, Democrat. Two congressional seats also were at stake.

In Indiana
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 4.—The fate of more than 17,000 candidates was to be settled in Indiana today as voters trooped to the polls to register their choices in the biennial "off year" election.

Indiana today was to elect 13 congressmen, 11 state officials, 126 members of the state legislature and approximately 17,000 county and township officials.

Of the 13 congressmen all of whom are running for re-election, 10 are Republicans and three are Democrats.

Michigan Vote Heavy
DETROIT, Nov. 4.—Michigan's army of 700,000 voters marched to the polls today to select its governor, a United States senator and to decide the fate of a ticket which is bedeviled with state issues. A Republican victory is expected in every one of the 83 counties of the state.

Among the issues is a reapportionment referendum, which, if passed, would dole out seats in the state legislature on a strict population basis and therefore give Detroit representatives a majority in both branches of the law-making body. A gasoline tax referendum is also before the voters. Detroit balloters were to decide the fate of a bond issue which would be used in construction of a billion dollar elevated highway from Detroit to Monroe, Mich.

State Attorney General Wilber Brucker, who was chosen as the Republican party gubernatorial nominee after governor Fred W. Green declared he would not run for re-election is expected to lead his party to a victory. Michigan has once solidly Republican since 1917. Rumor has it that the attorney general is William A. Comstock, classed as an anti-Prohibitionist.

The Republican ticket is believed to be further strengthened by U. S. Senator James Couzens, who is running for re-election. His Democratic opponent is Thomas A. Weadcock, Michigan business man.

Workers Arrested
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 4.—Two precinct workers were arrested here today when they were found to be armed. Republican chairman of the Jackson County election board is reported missing and other slight disorders marked the voting here today.

An automobile, identified as belonging to Rex Hedrick, election board chairman, was found today on a lonely road near Ripley, Mo., no word of Hedrick has been received at election headquarters or at his home.

WOMAN'S CLUB HEARS DR. AMOS

Mrs. William Cosel of the Department of International Relations of the Women's club had charge of the program Monday afternoon in the Highland United Presbyterian church, and it was splendidly carried out with "Peace" being the theme of the afternoon.

Mrs. A. B. Street, president, had charge of the business meeting and the club women decided to aid in the state work among the blind. The program opened with Mrs. Cosel making a statement of the purpose of her department, which is a new one this year in the club work.

The prayer for peace with a minutes' silent devotion was given by Mrs. C. Duff Scott after which Mrs. George Phillips Johnson gave the poem "Illusions of War," by Richard D. Gallienne. Mrs. Robert McKinney gave a reading "Unknown" after which the unveiling of the Briand-Kellogg peace past took place with Mrs. John Elliott, Rebecca Brown and Mrs. J. M. Darbaker participating in the ceremony; the salute to the flag was given by Mrs. W. H. Hanger, assisted by girl scouts and this part of the program closed with the club women singing "America the Beautiful".

Mrs. Cosel, in a most pleasing manner, introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Walter A. Amos, rector, of the St. Peter's Episcopal church of Pittsburgh, whose subject was "Making and Breaking the War Habit". Rev. Amos addressed dealt with the importance of the United States in guarding against all future wars, going deeply into the subject of how these may be avoided. He also stated that the United States must not be a follower, but a leader in any international movements that tend toward peace among the nations.

As a nation the United States stands forth as the greatest one on the earth and the people of other countries look to her for leadership and we must not disappoint them, our attitude toward war and peace will be followed and if we lead in the abolishing of war and putting the world in a position which will ultimately lead to everlasting peace, the nations of the world will follow the example.

This, of course can not be done in a day, but such meetings as the one held by the Woman's club, if persisted in, will bring the subject of peace before the coming generations and war will be obliterated from the face of the earth.

Rev. Amos speech was enthusiastically received by the club members. November 10 will mark the date of the next meeting of the club, when Mrs. Charles Wallace and Mrs. Margaret Rice will be hostesses and Mrs. E. F. G. Harper will be in charge of the program.

The meeting will be marked by a "Psychological" program, the speaker being none other than Dr. Joseph Jastrow, eminent American Psychologist and Professor emeritus of the University of Wisconsin. His specific subject for the day will be "The Psychology of Wit and Humor" and he will take up "Why Do We Laugh?" our instinctive expressions: "What Do We Laugh At?" and other interesting points of the range and reach of a sense of humor.

Mrs. W. H. Hanger and Mrs. W. A. Womer were hostesses for the afternoon.

November Is Coat Month At Higgins

You Will Find YOUR Coat, YOUR Price Among the Fashions in the Higgins Collection

We recommend a speedy trip to Higgins. For a new winter coat is almost a necessity this year, because of the great difference in 1930 style lines. Though your last season's coat may be warm and whole, you'll probably find it won't do. Fortunately Higgins prices are going to make a change easy to finance.

So come and see them. They are individual. There are copies and adaptations of the Paris models. There are others distinctly American in conception. But all are decidedly new and we believe these coats are going to convince everyone that Higgins is leading the city in coats.

UNIFORMITY IN AIR LAWS

GOVERNOR FISHER has named Elwood J. Turner and Robert M. Ginter to represent Pennsylvania at the national conference in Washington in December to discuss uniform aeronautical regulations.

Mr. Turner is a member of the legislature who was active in framing state aeronautical laws, and Mr. Ginter is vice chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission. Besides a uniform state code they will consider the problem of federal traffic rules to aid local enforcement and matters affecting airports.

There is no doubt that supervision of the airways demands a plan of co-operation as urgently as any activity within ordinary policing powers. In fact, the interstate aspect of aviation transcends that of highway travel, not only because airplanes may cross state lines so quickly, but also because state jurisdiction in the air lacks the well-defined boundaries available on the earth's surface.

The police problem itself will be difficult. This is one of the topics on the conference program. Assuming that it can be settled satisfactorily, the question of prosecutions will be full of hazards. All the obstructive devices and legal delays that impede the ordinary course of justice will be greatly multiplied by the increased possibility of technical subtleties. If crimes go largely unpunished when committed in a two-dimensional space the escapes in three-dimension space may be appalling. One must remember, too, that efforts at a statutory control upset age-old defenses in the common law traditions about freedom of the air. Readjustment to the new order may come only slowly.

All these factors suggest the desirability of making state authority as nearly uniform as possible and backing it up with a vigorous public opinion.

SETBACK FOR METROPOLITAN PLAN

Judge Siddons of the District of Columbia Supreme Court has dismissed the petition asking a mandamus to compel the director of census to list the population of Atlanta at 360,932 instead of 270,367. The latter figure is the enumeration for the city proper, and the former includes outlying districts that were annexed by recent act of the Georgia legislature without completely merging their corporate identity. They still retain certain separate municipal powers.

Whether this semi-independent status operates against their exclusion or in favor of it, for census purposes, is a question the director has no authority to determine, according to the court's decision. It is also held that the law does not require the director to publish a census of cities, since that duty lies outside the necessity, which the constitution recognizes, of enumerating the inhabitants in order to apportion their representation in congress fairly.

This ruling, unless challenged, means that Philadelphia and other places contemplating a metropolitan plan of annexations are by no means sure of being able to count such accessions in the federal returns. Perhaps pressure may bring from some future congress a new definition of what constitutes the population of a "city." In the past the Census Bureau has sought the aid of Chambers of Commerce and other bodies for views on what makes up the so-called "greater" city. In general the agreement has been that a unified trading zone within certain restrictions comprises the "greater" city. But the bureau usually issues such information as supplementary to its main report, and it has lacked official sanction. The significance of these estimates now dwindles further if Judge Siddons's decree becomes final. Meanwhile a new petition has been filed seeking to restrain the director from publishing any other figure for Atlanta's population than the 360,932. In other words, an injunction is asked where a mandamus was refused.

Atlanta, like her sister cities, has counted too much on the label from the Census Bureau. Her buying power, her labor market and similar assets are not dependent on the rating given at Washington. The suburbs do represent a coefficient of consumption in spite of Census Bureau arithmetic. If business men would recognize the fact and play up to it more effectively there might be less hysteria in watching the federal scoreboard—Philadelphia Inquirer.

IF ADVERTISING STOPPED

"What would be the reaction upon the cost of living if advertising ceased and its beneficent force were stopped?" This question provides much food for rumination.

It is an interesting conjecture. Advertising largely takes the place of personal selling effort, which is very much more expensive.

A California editor cogitating on the possibility of a cessation of advertising says:

"It would mean that our railroad trains would be thronged with salesmen whose homeward bound mail would carry fewer orders, all of smaller volume than now.

"Distribution upon the present scale would be impossible. Manufacturing would fall off, with a consequent decrease in labor demand. Jobbers would find their business proportionally limited. Retailers would make fewer and slower turnovers.

MEN ARE THE MYSTERIOUS ONES

Are women mysterious?
That's a joke.
That's old stuff.
They used to be, but they aren't any more. The MEN are the mysterious ones now—and everybody knows it.

The women were mysterious back in the days when men didn't know what they were thinking. But now everybody knows what they're thinking.

They talk right out in meeting. They say what they want to SAY. And if they can get away with it they do what they want to DO. They get the jobs and they fill them capably. And if they marry and have children, they still aren't the old-fashioned wives they used to be.

They talk about the men. Of course they ALWAYS talked about the men—when the men weren't there but now they talk about the men when the men are presently and uncomfortably—and laughing hollowly—and getting red ears from embarrassment.

They talk about the men just as the men used to talk about the women. And they talk TO the men in that same condescending-of-course-you-don't-understand, pet-kitten way the men once used in talking to women.

They say the most astounding things. That's what the women are doing.

And, of course, the men pretend to like it. They SAY they do.

They say: "Isn't it swell that the women are emancipated, that our daughters and mothers and sisters and wives are like this—so modern and independent and refreshingly natural. They used to repress themselves, now they EXPRESS themselves. Isn't it fine?"

Yes . . . Isn't it? THE LIARS.

The FAKERS! They don't mean a word they say. They feel cheated. They don't want women to be their "equals." They don't really want to see women doing those things saying these things being "modern." They want them to be like "the girl that married dear old dad." But they DON'T DARE TO SAY IT! They know what would happen. They can imagine the peals of laughter—the howls, the chuckles, the unladylike display of amusement.

They don't dare say that, so what do they DO—the cowards?

They keep STILL. They become MYSTERIOUS. They say one thing and think another, just as the women did. They say things about the women that they don't say when they're around. They think one thing and do the opposite. They're all muddled and rebellious just as the women were. They're messes—they're MYSTERIOUS!

And here I stand . . . all defenses down . . . saying what I shouldn't say . . . and the odds are ten to one I can't find ONE man in all this town who'll back me up and admit I'm telling the TRUTH!

The Money Grabber
Perhaps you find yourself with a larger income than you ever expected to command.

You remember when you thought that half the amount would satisfy you.

Are you happy?

No, you want still more and live in constant fear of losing what you have.

Even a small loss makes you despondent.

You are not having the pleasure you thought would be yours.

Your thoughts are so wrapped up in making more and fear of losing some that you have little time left and no desire to think of anything but your financial possessions.

Money is your god and it alone, you worship.

As an employer you are niggardly, perhaps, in the wages you pay because you prefer a larger accumulation for yourself rather than the good of your men.

You have as much as your family and you will ever need, so why the determination to carry on the fight for increasing fortune.

Why not relax and begin to enjoy some of the things money will buy?

Why not get acquainted with your family and learn their desires.

There are many commendable ways you might get more out of life than it now affords you.

Program Of Chinese Reform Viewed As Difficult Course

Horrible Massacres Charged To Communists Impress Americans As Evidence Of Great Obstacles In Chiang's Future Pathway

Opinion regarding Chiang Kai-Shek's statement of China's requirements for the establishment of law and order in China is mixed with comment on the massacre of thousands under lawless conditions in some sections. These atrocities are charged by some to the Russian communists. The conversion of Chiang to the Christian religion is studied in its possible bearing upon his control over the people of China. "What China and the outside world will be interested in," says the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, "is not what the subjective nature of Gen. Chiang's conversion may be, but its objective results, if any." The Tribune holds that "a plausible hope is that measures for the suppression of Chinese communism, with its violent anti-religious policy, may be intensified. But the Nationalist government," continues that paper, "is fully aware of the danger to itself and to the interests of China, as it intelligently conceives them, of the communist warfare, both as a devastating force and as a means of imposing soviet control over Chinese affairs. If the Red bands have not yet been crushed, it has not been from lack of will but from lack of means. Now that the campaign against the northern coalition has become inactive, through the intervention of the Manchurian war lord, Gen. Chiang may be free to attend to the communist forces in central China, and if he can do so there is little doubt he will at the first opportunity. It is to be hoped the young Manchurian dictator, who declares the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE, "this conversion, when China is reported torn with anti-Christian propaganda, when missionaries are being forced to give up posts where they had worked for three decades, when Chiang's own government has just banned religious instruction even in the mission schools . . . To the philosophical Chinese mind, all religions are but partial approximations of universal truth. And Chiang, when he sees his country drifting unsatisfied with its religious, old religions, old traditions of every sort, undisciplined and chaotic, must feel the need of something to tie to."

"In its cultural aspect," as interpreted by the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, "Chiang's conversion is a manifestation of the New China, a definite break with tradition. Politically it stamps the Western religion in China with conservatism and consigns communism to a position to cultivate the sympathies of the Powers at the moment when it has crushed military opposition and is ready for the first time to undertake civil reform and internal improvements with foreign financial assistance."

Fatality attacks by the communists carrying out the Moscow Red program, says the JAMESVILLE GAZETTE, are aimed against all Christians—missionaries, the laity of all nations and natives as well. By embracing Christianity, Chiang issues a challenge to the Reds of all the universe. There have been other examples of such conversions, the most outstanding being that of Constantine, emperor of Rome, who turned his realm over in a day from paganism to Christianity by one ukase. The Chinese, it appears to be more certain each day, Great areas are in the hands of Reds. They move about rapidly, plundering and exacting huge ransoms. Calls are made for foreign intervention. Nations hesitate about a direct move to halt these red armies of irregulars. It would cost millions of lives and lives would be paid to pay the penalty. It would be a Boer rebellion with a definite objective but a war scattered over a great nation with no one with whom peace might be made. It would be worse than Pershing's attempt to capture Villa.

The Communists in China," observes the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, "have captured another city. Reports of the number of people massacred run all the way from 8000 to 60,000. Exaggerations probably reflect wrong guesses about the number who fell into the hands of the horde rather than merciful moderation by the victorious bandits. A philosophy which teaches the forcible redistribution of property and extermination of persons who do not join the movement shows illuminating results when it is taken up by the Chinese robber bands."

The possibility of further spread of the activities of so-called communists in China, in the judgment of the CHATTANOOGA TIMES, "renders the future of that country something of which one does not like to think. But Europe and America would seem to be all but powerless to prevent the worst. Responsible government has disappeared from large sections of the land and the people have been left a prey to the lawless. It is a dark hour for China, and one through which it must pass largely alone."

Hope for the future is seen by the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE in Chiang Kai-Shek's manifesto announcing reforms, which that paper believes shows "a careful study of American political forms and programs," with a suspicion that "it was addressed to the outside world rather more than to the Chinese people." The Times-Picayune concludes: "The misfortune is chiefly noteworthy because it is unifies that some at least of China's present-day leaders realize their country's needs in the way of governmental and administrative reforms. That recognition should force soon or late, and probably in the form of the fundamental reform Chiang Kai-Shek has outlined." The FLINT DAILY JOURNAL agrees that "if Chiang, the young dictator, can first of all quiet the people and rid the country of its communist leaders, there is a possibility that he can institute a constructive program."

The OAKLAND TRIBUNE finds significance in territorial developments and in the fact that "other nations are giving back what they took long ago," referring to the British action on Wei-hai-wei, and declaring: "Now, after many delays, the city and port are returned and China may check another step on the list of those which have turned its nationalist ambitions gain even in the face of the most threatening civil warfare. With the action of Britain the word given by Mr. Bai-fu at the Washington Conference in 1922 has been kept. But for the fall of the Peking Government in 1924 the return would have been made at earlier date."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHAT OF "WHISKY?"

Around the advertising slogan "whoever drinks beer will live to be 100 years old," a fierce fight is being waged between brewers and wine makers in Italy. Each side is asking the government to expound its cause.

Italy produces more than one-fifth of the world's supply of wine, being second only to France, but her consumption of the beverage is steadily decreasing.

Two causes contribute to this. The lesser is anti-alcoholic propaganda, which has had its effect, although it will be many years before Italy is ready to enact an Eighteenth Amendment. The other is the increased consumption of beer, brought about by the $125,000 advertising fund of the Italian brewers.

War Cry of the Red Ants

Peter stared at Commander Ant, and Commander Ant stared at Peter. "There must be something I can do," remarked the boy. "Now that I am here, I may as well be useful."

"Right!" agreed Commander Ant. "Let me think. How would you like to be messenger boy? Somebody has to carry the word from one part of the hill to another, and if you would be so good as to do so, it would relieve one of our scout ants for active duty."

"That suits me!" Peter nodded. "I may get lost now and again, but I'll try to hang on to my sense of direction! Ye gods and little catfish! What is that awful noise?"

No wonder Peter was startled. A shrill sound, half hiss, half scream, tore the silence.

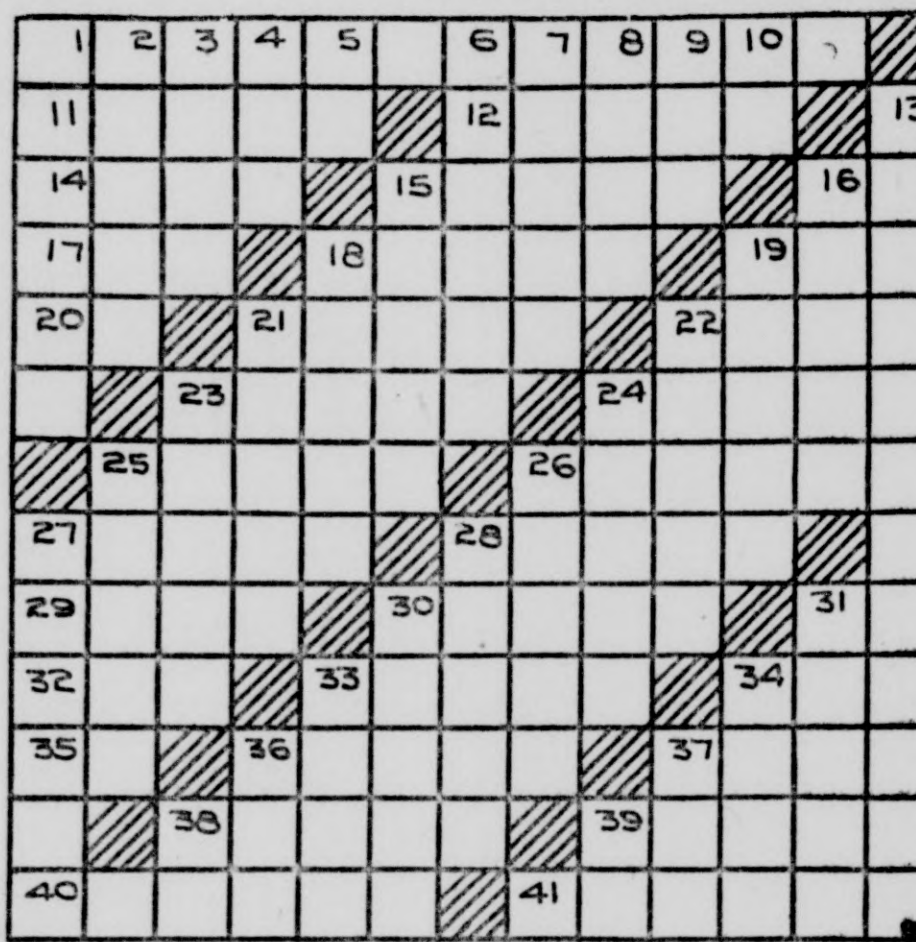

"That's the war cry of the Red Ants!" answered Commander. "Just as I expected! They have broken through the first lines, and are bearing down upon us. We have gotten our forces together just in time. Even so, there's no time to lose in taking our posts. Quick, sisters! Fall into line. Mark time! Forward march! And when you catch a glimpse of the enemy's eyes, fight as you never fought before!"

The horrible noise was coming nearer and nearer. Peter felt his blood curdle. The enemy meant business, that was certain.

"Now, I guess I know how the early American settlers felt when for the first time they heard the Indian warwhoop. Almost it is as if I were a little white boy hiding behind a stockade waiting for the Redskins to attack!"

Next: "Threat and Promise."

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any drugstore, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Then you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the granulated phlegm and causes chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

COAL NEWS

A TIMELY WARNING

An analysis of the coal market reveals the fact that the supply of domestic coal is being curtailed because of thirty per cent slump in the industrial demand.

With the domestic demand about to go into its seasonal high peak, and the supply being thus curtailed, the inevitable result will be a higher price per ton.

But there is yet time to avail yourself of the present low prices if you act now. But let us repeat—Now is the time.

Aviation Line Has Been Sold

Clifford Ball Aviation Company Passes To Holding Company

NEW NAME GIVEN ORGANIZATION

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 4.—The Clifford Ball Aviation company, operator of the air-mail and passenger service from Cleveland to Washington, via Pittsburgh, has been purchased by the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries corporation, a holding company, according to an announcement today from Clifford Ball, head of the Ball lines.
The new organization will operate under the name of the Pennsylvania Air Lines, Inc. No changes nor additions to the present service are being contemplated at the present time, according to Ball.
Richard W. Robbins, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries corporation, becomes president of the new system and Clifford Ball will act as first vice president and general manager.
Other officers will be Major H. S. Martin, vice president; C. Bedell Monro, secretary and treasurer; A. L. Humphrey, George R. Hann, R. W. Robbins, Clifford Ball, W. L. Monro, G. T. Ladd, Norman Alderdice, Andrew J. White and R. M. Baldrige, directors.
Merging of the Ball system marks the passing, in name, of the pioneer air service company in Pittsburgh. The Ball lines began operation in 1926 between Pittsburgh and Cleveland and in 1929 extended their service to Washington, D. C.
The Pittsburgh Aviation Industries corporation has established the Pittsburgh-Butler airport, the Pennsylvania school of aviation and the Pittsburgh Aerial Surveys company. It recently affiliated with Transcontinental & Western, Inc., to establish a coast-to-coast all air passenger service through this city.

May Utilize Free Wood And Coal For Needy Ones Of City

Applicants For Aid Would Rather Do Something Than Accept Charity

Wood which is being burned up by the Pennsylvania railroad company may be utilized for the poor of the city if plans now being made by County Investigator M. B. Hogue are carried out. The wood, which is obtained from the wrecking of old cars, is hard and dry and would make excellent firewood. Heretofore the railroad company has piled it up and burned it.
Hogue says that many of the applicants for help are able bodied men and that they could be put to work cutting up the wood, if they had some means of having it hauled to their homes. The county, it is believed, can arrange to do this hauling at $1 a load.
Mr. Hogue also found that there is a small vein of coal at No. 2 Cement plant, now controlled by the New Castle Brick Products company, that can be had for the digging. It is a stripping proposition and anybody can dig it. The coal vein is covered by limestone, and then by a layer of clay which the brick company uses.
Able bodied men who apply for help can be put to work taking out this coal which can be hauled at a considerable saving to the county. Mr. Hogue reports that most of the able bodied men who are out of work and apply for aid, would rather work at something and be paid for their work, even at a low wage, than to accept charity. Considerable thought has been given to this phase of the county and aid business, but the trouble has been to find work that the applicants can do.
Some of the streets of the city or county could be put in good shape by men who apply for help and who would rather do something to earn the money than to have it given to them.

Indian Lore Topic Of Hi-Y Speaker

Student Of Indians Tells Senior Hi-Y About Life And Customs Of Red Men

The red man's life and customs, told by Paul Mackey of this city to 45 members of the Senior Hi-Y in the banquet room of the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, proved a fascinating story of the first Americans.
The talk was preceded by a dinner. Mackey, who has made a study of Indian lore and the reservations which are the best outposts of the Indian tribes in this country, presented an entertaining talk. He had with him interesting relics made and used by Indians, including costumes and implements of war.
The meeting was in charge of William Shira, president of the Hi-Y group.

Hunter's Car Is Wrecked In Crash

Secretary To Congressman Swick Escapes Injury Early Monday Morning

Harold C. Hunter of Washington, D. C. Secretary to Congressman J. Howard Swick, escaped uninjured early Monday morning, when his machine was struck by a car owned by Walter Gibson and driven by Arden Atwell, both of Grove City.
The accident occurred at the underpass of the Bessemer railroad in Forestville.
The force of the collision drove Hunter's car into the side of the tunnel, while the other machine proceeded along the road for about 100 feet, where it went into the ditch. A charge of reckless driving has been placed against Atwell by State Police who investigated the accident.

Crayon Drawing Outlined

(This is another lesson in the national cartoon contest of Central Press.)

By JACK SORDS
Famous Sports Cartoonist

Crayon drawing is excellent practice for the beginner artist. So is water color. However, crayon is much more easy to manipulate so the beginner who likes to try his or her hand at doing portrait work should first try crayon.
Crayon work teaches you tones, the difference between light and dark shadows.

Above are examples of the three stages of a crayon drawing:
1. The drawing with shadows only outlined.
2. Filling in with light shadows.
3. Finishing with the dark shadows. The completed drawing.
The difference between crayon or water color work and pen and ink drawing is this: The first displays no outline, the drawing consisting entirely of blended dark and light shadow, the second consisting only of outlines.
NEXT: Balanced and Unbalanced Drawing. Be preparing your cartoons to send in.

Basketball Will Start Next Week

Special Classes In Basketball And Roller Skating To Start At Y. M. C. A.

Women's basketball classes will commence next week at the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium, under the direction of the health director, Miss Caroline Streeter.
Many local women have been inquiring at the Y. W. C. A. regarding the starting of special basketball classes and the use of the gymnasium and it is believed that quite a number of teams will be organized for play during this winter.
Roller skating will also commence in the "Y" gymnasium next week, Miss Streeter announces. Arrangements are being made for having the necessary equipment ready for use. Further plans in regard to the basketball and the roller skating classes will be made at the meeting of the Health Education Committee of the "Y" which will meet Wednesday morning.
Roller skating is something that has never before been tried at the local Young Woman's Christian Association but it will undoubtedly meet with real enthusiasm.

Two Generations Make Big Change In Library

That the function of the public library has changed greatly within the past two generations was the statement made today by Alice M. Sterling, librarian at the New Castle Public Library.
"The old conception of the public library" said Miss Sterling "was that the library was a musty institution where human knowledge was stored away. It took on somewhat the aspect of a museum."
"Today, fortunately, all that is changed. Now people recognize the public library as the helpful service institution it is. True, human knowledge still reposes here in printed form, but it is indexed and cross-indexed so as to be readily available to any individual seeking information on any subject."
While the use of the library is increasing, according to Miss Sterling, twice as many New Castle people would use the library's facilities if they were fully acquainted with them. Visitors, she said, are always welcome at the library, and members of the staff are ready and willing anytime to show people through the building or to assist anyone in finding books or data that might be desired.

Suit For Damages In Auto Accident

Catherine Zelesnak And Father Andy Zelesnak Want $25,000 From Walter Mora

Catherine Zelesnak, by her father, Andy Zelesnak of Koppel, has filed a suit and issued a capias at the prothonotary's office, against Walter Mora of Chewton in which $25,000 damages are asked for injuries to Catherine Zelesnak as the result of an automobile accident near Chewton.
This is a case in which a car driven by Mora crashed into a car belonging to Jefferson Winston of New Castle. Winston was killed and a lady occupant of the Mora car afterwards died as a result of injuries sustained in the accident.
Winston had parked his car on a curve to change a tire. It was while the change was being made that the Mora car crashed into the Winston car. At the coroner's inquest on Catherine Zelesnak the jury returned a verdict of accidental death. The woman who was injured died in the Rochester hospital.
It is claimed that Catherine Zelesnak, in whose behalf the present suit is brought, had her pelvic bone and left shoulder dislocated and suffered injuries to her spine, as well as internal injuries. Careless driving on the part of Mora in operating his car is alleged.

Mystery Of Missing Guns Has New Sequel; Another Returned

Troop P's "Mystery of the Missing Guns, or the Return of the Three" reached a new chapter this week, and, as a result, the puzzle is still unsolved. But the troop officers are jubilant because the last in missing equipment from the troop armory has been returned, according to Capt. Harvey G. Bintrim, the commander.
Capt. Bintrim said today that the armory's long lost automatic pistol which mysteriously disappeared while the outfit was camping at Mt. Gretna in 1929, has been returned in an equally mysterious manner.
The latest return is the third. Several days ago the commander found two other pistols which had been missing from the troop stores.
Missing for a year, the automatic was returned to the armory with the serial number of the weapon marked. The other two weapons had been missing for only a few months and were left by the taker on the commander's doorsteps on Boyles avenue.
Capt. Bintrim said today that a wide search has been instituted to apprehend the person who took the automatic a year ago from the camp at Mt. Gretna.

Blind Charlie Makes Request

Has An Opportunity Of Getting A Helper If Public Will Assist

Charles W. Thomas, known throughout this city on account of the affliction of blindness, which has made him dependent on the charity of the people here for many years, has another plea to make, which means much to him in his declining years. He hopes that the people will aid him in this, which will mean much to him.
He has the opportunity of securing the services of Thomas Watson and his wife in caring for him for the balance of his life. Their home is in Pittsburgh but they are without funds to move here.
Charles's plea is that Mr. Watson, who has managed to get here by himself be provided with work this week and for a time longer, in order to get funds with which to bring Mrs. Watson here.
When the Watsons get here, they will move into Charlie's little home in the South New Castle Boro district and care for him for the balance of his life, in return for a place to make their home.
At the present time Charlie is compelled to rent a room at 1327 Moravia street, spending money that he has a hard time getting and which would make him more comfortable, if he could reside in his own little home and have proper care such as the Watsons have promised to provide for him.
A call on the phone of Mr. Shapiro, 1327R will reach Charlie, or he may be advised of any work obtainable for Mr. Watson as he sits on Washington street patiently awaiting the dropping pennies, nickles and dimes that the kind hearted people of this city drop into his little cup.

Vare Secretly Hopes Pinchot Will Be Licked
Powerful Philadelphia Political Boss Fights Gift of Pinchot
FEUD EXTENDS SEVERAL YEARS
Vare Motors From Atlantic City Home To Cast Ballot For John M. Mephill
(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—A physically broken man, wearing dark glasses and shuffling along on a cane, cast his secret ballot here today, undoubtedly, against Gifford Pinchot and hoping the republican nominee would go down to defeat.
Thus William S. Vare, whose high aspirations for National leadership in the republican party were smashed when the senate struck from his shoulders a senatorial toga, turned another page in his feud with Pinchot. Vare motored here from his convalescent retreat in Atlantic City to oppose Pinchot and to spur on the great Philadelphia republican organization into rolling up a tremendous majority of the liberal-democrat, John M. Mephill.
Caused Revolt
Down at his Villa at the seashore, Vare was credited with having given the "nod" that launched the statewide bolt of republicans to the Mephill banner. At least, the politicians say, he jerked the republican organization in Philadelphia from the Pinchot camp, turning this great city democratic for the first time in modern history. Without his silent accord, the bold against Pinchot probably would have died by the wayside.
If Pinchot is defeated—and his defeat, if it occurs, will be due to Philadelphia's bolt—Vare will be credited with keeping the republican nominee from the governor's chair, just as Pinchot is credited with keeping the Philadelphian from a seat in the senate. It was that classic "certificate of doubt," written by Pinchot in 1926 just before he ended his first term as governor and describing Vare's election to the senate as "partially bought and partially stolen," that gave a tremendous impetus to the senate fight against the Philadelphian. It resulted in the senate denying Vare even privilege of taking his oath of office as a senator.
Never Forgave Pinchot
Having beaten Pinchot for the senatorial nomination that year, Vare never has forgiven the governor for writing that "certificate of doubt." Early this spring, Vare sponsored Francis Shunk Brown, aged attorney, as an opponent to Pinchot in the prize fight only to watch the entry of a third and dripping wet nominee divide his own ranks, permitting the former governor to win. Since then, just as Pinchot declined to abide by the tabulated result of either the 1926 primary or election, so Vare refused to abide by the results of this year's primary. The bolt to Mephill followed.
Vare has not publicly declared against Pinchot, but he did approve the speech made by his daughter, Miss Beatrice Vare, against the former governor. In that speech, Miss Vare declared "Pinchot tried to crucify my father" and begged republican voters to support Mephill.
Proud of Daughter
"My daughter's speech was read to me," was Vare's comment. "I am highly pleased with it and I am proud of her."
The results of the election today may give Vare a measure of victory over Pinchot but it will end their feud. So long as they live, these two men will fight each other politically with all the resources at their command.
If Pinchot wins, the Vare organization will fight his legislative program at Harrisburg throughout his administration while Vare, original sponsor of secretary of labor James J. Davis for the senate seat he lost, will have a large word to say about federal patronage in the eastern part of the state. If Pinchot loses, the Vare organization will command respect at Harrisburg throughout Mephill's administration, while Pinchot will be relegated temporarily to the sidelines, probably to reappear two years hence when Davis must stand for re-election to the senate.
But the vote that Vare cast against Pinchot today turned the page in another chapter of this tremendously poignant political battle between two men, known throughout the country and each powerful in his own way.

"And by the use of hose company No. 2, large chemical and the booster tank on truck B were successful in extinguishing a fire that not only would have destroyed the Hanna home, but in all probability would have been communicated to two other homes that were very near the Hanna home.

Takes Courage To Oppose Crowd And Carry-On
"During the recent war many hundreds of soldiers of all armies received distinguished service medals for outstanding bravery. And many hundreds of thousands more displayed wonderful courage upon the field of battle. Too much praise can not be given to this type of valor. But there are often situations which demand great courage also," said Doctor Theodore B. Apple, State Secretary of Health, today.
"Without wishing to minimize the heroic deeds which were so common in no-man's-land, the tremendous urge of military necessity and group action were inspiring factors. On the other hand, it takes an entirely different type of courage to oppose the crowd and carry on single-handed. This fact forcibly illustrated when, habits and customs are concerned."
"Comparatively a few weeks ago, despite the excessive temperature, most men discarded straw hats for their felt ones, not from any comfort standpoint, but because the imperious dictates of fashion rang the courthouse bell on the summer style of headgear. And it was a brave man indeed who dared defy tradition in this respect by continuing to appear in his straw hat."
"Much the same psychology can be blamed for the practice of following certain trends of habit, common to the crowd, and which are decidedly detrimental to health and the chances of long life."
"For instance, it takes a very particular type of courage to refuse invitations to late hour parties which are likely to rob one of sleep and vitality if frequently indulged in. By the same token, no little bravery must needs be exhibited on the part of the modern young man and woman who, for their health's sake, in the face of the almost universal affection for inhaled cigarettes consistently refuses to use them. Again, a very definite force of character is required to limit one's food intake to physical necessity rather than to be guided by the measure of the capacity displayed by appetite alone."
"And in general, it demands a strong will to withstand the alluring temptations of present-day civilization which have their foundation in so-called pleasures and thrills rather than on the solid basis of physical well-being."
"Therefore, the person who can stand the gaff deserves real credit for his personal courage. But he to will get a magnificent reward. Remember, that to the victor belong the spoils; and in conquering one's self on a health basis the spoils are represented by a healthy, happy and lengthy life—than which there is no greater reward."

Fourth Pension Bill In Council

Councilman Burns Presents Pension Bill For Police

COMMISSION TO DIRECT FUND

Councilman W. T. Burns, superintendent of finance for the city during council session at the municipal building Monday introduced an ordinance which creates and establishes a Police association and a Police fund. The measure also provides for its administration, management, regulation and control. The Burns measure is the fourth Police pension bill, others having been presented by D. O. Davies during his term as a councilman. Councilman Trever and also Councilman Reeves.

The Burns bill, which was sent to committee for consideration later, provides that the fund is to be created and maintained by an annual appropriation made by council and also by an equal and proportionate monthly charge of three percent of the pay for each member of the force who becomes a member of the association. The measure calls for an appropriation annually to the pension fund of $4,000, of which one-twelfth shall be paid into the fund at the end of each calendar month. Police to get a pension must have served 20 years continuously.

The other salient points of Councilman Burns measure follows: The fund created shall be under the direction of a committee, to be known as the Police Pension Fund commission, membership to consist of the mayor, four members of council, police chief and two members of the association selected by council recommended by the majority of members of the association.

The commission is to meet, organize, name a president and secretary and shall adopt such rules and regulations for the administration of the fund providing, however, that the rules and regulations shall be approved by the city council and shall conform to and be in accordance with the provision of any and all acts of the Commonwealth, of this (the present) ordinance and of all other ordinances of the city in force or hereafter passed.

Applies to Association
The Pension Fund is to be applied only to the association members and who shall receive honorable discharge by reason of age or disability and the allowance that shall be made to those retired by these foregoing reasons and shall be in conformity with a uniform scale.

Before they can become members they must agree to pay an amount equal to three percent of his pay towards such Pension fund. The fund cannot be used for any purpose other than to pay pensions. The commission can accept gifts, grants, device or bequest, a money or property.

It is to be held in trust for the benefit of the Pension fund and the care, management, investment and disposal of such trust funds or property shall be vested to the commission. When there is a surplus in the fund above the current requirements it can be invested as follows:

Bonds of the United States, bonds of the state, of any municipality, or municipal division of the state, of certificates of indebtedness for public improvements issued by the city of New Castle but it is provided however that if the donor of any such trust fund stipulates how the same shall be invested or disposed of, such stipulation shall supersede the requirements of this section as to donations only.

Can Retire at 70
Any member of the association may retire from active duty when he becomes 70 years old but he is subject to service from time to time as a police reserve until in the opinion of council he shall be unfit for service, when he shall be finally discharged by reason of age or disability.

Members of the association may retire from active duty at the age of 70 and receive the pension but it can show to council that he is able to perform the duties of a policeman, he may continue working on the force until such time as he becomes incapacitated for duty.

The bill also provides that any member between 60 and 70, may be retired at his own request and the recommendation of the other association members, concurred in by four members of council. Any member between these ages can be compelled to retire by a vote of four members of council when it is shown he is unfit to perform a policeman's duties.

No member of the association shall receive a pension from the fund set up and compensation from the city for injuries at the same time.

Reasons for Non-Payment
He can be deprived of his pension rights for any one of the reasons following:

Conviction of a crime or misdemeanor; becoming a habitual drunkard; becoming a non-resident of the state and failing to comply with the general regulations relating to the fund after notice and hearing before council.

The bill provides for the appropriation annually of $4,000, one-twelfth of which shall be paid to the fund at the end of each month.

No pension shall be paid to any one during the first year after the effective date of the ordinance.

Members who will be 7 years old and older at the effective date of the ordinance and who have served continuously twenty years on the force, shall receive a sum equal to 33 1-3 percent of their annual pay which they were receiving immediately preceding retirement.

Members under 60 years at the effective date of the ordinance and who have served continuously 20 years shall receive at 70 years, if he desires, a sum equal to 50 percent of the annual pay which they were receiving immediately preceding retirement.

Must Repay Money
Persons hereafter entering the service of the city as policemen and becoming members of the association may retire at the age of 70 if they have continuously served 20 years and receive a sum equal to 50 percent of the annual paying they received immediately preceding retirement.

Any member voluntarily withdrawing from the force and who is an associate member and is not on the retired list and not under any charges, upon notice to the commission, shall be entitled after the first year of his entrance in the association to receive all moneys paid into the fund by him together with interest at the rate of three percent. Should he withdraw as a policeman and desire again to enter the association, he shall be required to pay back the money he has withdrawn, together with all the dues that would have accrued between the time of withdrawal and reinstatement.

Any member of the association being discharged for any cause whatsoever, shall not be entitled to a return of the moneys paid in by him to the fund, nor if he is reinstated on the force, shall he become a member of the association until he has paid all dues accruing from the time of discharge until reinstatement to the association.

The bill concludes that "all ordinances or parts of ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance are hereby repealed."

Long Services Too Much For People

HARLINGTON, Texas, Nov. 4.—The reason a great many people don't attend church often is that the long tiresome sermons delivered by most ministers bore them to distraction, in the opinion of Bishop Sam R. Hay, of the West Texas Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South.

"To some extent," said the bishop, "long sermons may be blamed for driving people away from the churches. Long prayers may be blamed for the tardiness of many churchgoers."

In addition, the bishop said that "the preacher who lives beyond his income is headed for the rocks."

Cut Government Expense In Cuba

(International News Service)
HAVANA, Nov. 4.—A step to curtail government expenditures in the state department, effecting economies in the neighborhood of $200,000 a year, was announced by Secretary of State Rafael Martinez Ortiz, who said there will be a fusion of consulates in Europe, and elimination of some others.

The Cuban legations in France and Belgium, Spain and Portugal, and Holland and Switzerland are to be merged, and three general consulates are to be abolished. Further economies are under consideration in a plan to reduce diplomatic salaries, the secretary said.

RECORD-BREAKING BUICK "8"

Will Be On Display Wednesday, Nov. 5th

Faster, by seventeen hours, than the fastest train time, a stock Buick 8-66s flashed across the continent and back to set a new record. "Stu" Hawley, director of Texaco national road reports, drove this Buick eight from New York to Los Angeles in 67 hours and 38 minutes. After a brief pause of 4 hours and 46 minutes he made the return run in 69 hours and 20 minutes. In this remarkable test of man and car, the veteran "Cannon Ball" Baker's record for the same run was broken by better than fifteen hours. The Buick service men who examined the car after this dramatic, record-breaking run were pleased with the excellent condition of the motor. Buick engineers have equipped this remarkable new eight with an oil temperature regulator, an oil cleaner, and a crankcase ventilator which enable you to drive at top speed for a thousand miles a day, as Mr. Hawley did to set this record, and still be sure that your motor is safeguarded against lubrication troubles.

Director Asks Girl Scouts To Make Scrap-Books

Best Scrap-Books Made By Local Troop Members Will Be Exhibited At Conference

If you notice any New Castle Girl Scouts having that far-away look in their eyes, don't disturb them, because they are probably thinking of unique ideas to carry out when they make their scrap-books.

Miss Nance Pugh, director of the city Girl Scout troops, has announced that a scrap-book contest will be conducted and that the best books will be exhibited at the regional conference that will be held in the Spring at New Castle.

Any individual Scout may make a scrap-book, or the book may be made by a patrol or an entire troop, as is desired. The contents of the book don't have to pertain to Scouting but it would be better if they did, the director explains.

Leaders of the troops and patrols may suggest and help in the planning and making of the scrap-books. They may start to collect material immediately. More information will be given to the leaders at the November leaders meeting.

Miss Pugh is making a scrap-book of etchings, and will show the girls this book as an example. She made a collection of Scout songs some time ago and formed a scrap-book out of those.

It is believed that the plan will meet with great enthusiasm on the parts of the energetic New Castle Girl Scouts and by Spring there will be some worth while exhibits for the regional conference.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Plan Party For Kiddies Hallowe'en

Train Your Children To Respect Rights Of Others

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

To the average child Hallowe'en stands for jack o' lanterns, ghosts and goblins and witch tales; means going out in masked gangs, ringing door bells, defacing and destroying and disturbing adults.

Some problems for us parents come with it. Children who, as a rule, annoy no one else, and who have no regard for others' rights and property, feel it no wrong at all on Hallowe'en to engage in all sorts of wild capers and depredations in their neighborhood. Any child at such times is less likely to exercise self-restraint than ordinarily. The psychology of the mob gets hold of him.

We owe it to our children to caution them against property destruction and defacement, particularly on Hallowe'en. If your child and mine has always had a high regard for others' property he will profit by a calm request that he be careful to do no damage. In case he has not learned so to respect the rights of others, better not let him go out at all, if you have spine and skill enough to keep him in.

Hallowe'en is the time a great many of us wish that more children had learned in babyhood some inhibitions and restraints. The average parent fails to train the child in appropriate regard for private and public property. We ought to realize that the difference is only one of degree between the deliberate breaking of a window or screen door and the holding up of a man or woman at the point of a gun.

If your child is sure he must soap windows, suggest that he center his activities upon yours, with the understanding that he will clean them on the morrow. Better persuade him and his gang to limit their visits to certain houses where they will be understood and will not prove themselves great annoyances. If you know of old people in the neighborhood, induce your children and their gang to avoid these folk.

We can do a great deal for our own children and their gang by planning an attractive program for them at our home with ample eats and fun under guidance. Anything we can do to cultivate harmless whole-some fun in our children and the children of the neighborhood is a contribution toward their character and education and the well being of the whole community.

Let us protect the younger children against painful fright, leading the older ones not to scare them purposely. We need also to guard these tender little ones from cruel ghost stories and witch tales.

Look out for fires. A good many homes are turned to ashes and some children are burned to death on Hallowe'en.

As for ourselves, we have an opportunity to prove good sports by not making fools of ourselves when children come around teasing us just to see how we will act when we are mad.

Drive Against Accidents Is On

Local Industries Co-Operate In National Safety Movement During Month

Local industries are co-operating with the Western Pennsylvania division of the National Safety Council in the observance of Thanksgiving-No Accident Month.

Most of the larger industries are continually waging a battle against accidents and keep the question before their employees in a forcible manner at all times.

However, they are putting forth special efforts to cut down lost-time accidents to a minimum during this special period.

Statistics of the National Safety Council show that accidents in the home cost almost as many lives as those through other accidents, and this phase of safety is being stressed.

During 1929, the figures show, there were 31,000 people met their deaths through automobile accidents, 25,000 died as the result of accidents in the home, while 23,000 died as the result of industrial accidents. There were 7,991 people drowned in the United States during the year. 2,485 met their deaths through railroad accidents and 485 were killed in civilian aviation accidents. During the year, 97,000 people died of all causes from accidents, almost twice as many as were killed in the United States during the World War.

Fattening Thin Folks Is Difficult

Constitutionally Lean Hard On Dietitians—Clendening

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The most troublesome problem of the dietitian is to "fatten up" people who are constitutionally lean. It is about as hopeless as stuffing a greyhound so it will look like a pug.

Many thin people, as was noticed yesterday, are thin because they have an organic disease. The "living skeleton" of the side show has a nervous disease resulting in atrophy of the muscles. The commonest organic disease responsible for underweight is tuberculosis. In the general vogue for the slender figure those who were able to diet themselves into it with the greatest ease were often found afterwards to have tuberculosis. The depressing list of prominent motion picture actresses who died of tuberculosis testifies to that. The fact that they dieted so strenuously in order to preserve figures which would hold them their positions was frequently blamed for the tuberculosis. This was probably only partially just. The tuberculosis was present all the time but the starvation diet certainly did not help to hold it in check.

But the "born to be thin" type is much more common. They are built on the long plan—generally tall, but whether tall or short, with long, thin neck, enormous flat chest, gangling arms and bony, slender hands and narrow feet.

The skin is so loose you can pick up a layer and pull it away from the flesh. There is no fat layer to cement it to the underlying tissues. The muscles can be seen, interlined with tendons, like cordage under the paper layer of silky skin.

Their whole machinery seems absolutely incapable of storing up any extra pounds of flesh. They can shovel food into themselves endlessly with no apparent results.

That is not quite a proper statement, however, because one of their difficulties is that the digestive system follows the architecture of the external framework of the body. The stomach is long and hangs low. It does not empty itself easily. The intestines are looped down, and hang low in the abdomen. These structural changes render these people considerably inefficient in digestion. They are likely to be dyspeptics. Food remains in the stomach over-long and causes "heavy feelings" and "gas." They are constipated. The whole digestive system adds to the difficulty of the situation by having a very limited capacity to utilize food. If you could stuff any amount into them they might fatten, but you can't.

Along with all this goes a general spiritual depression—a settled melancholy. The Lincoln type. They are restless and expend energy needlessly.

A gain in weight changes many of their peculiarities. Fat deposited in the abdomen raises the stomach and the intestines and relieves much of the dyspepsia. With the first gain in weight these people begin to improve. If they go "over the hump" in their weight curve, they then gradually, but steadily, get heavier.

Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlet on "Hygiene of Women" also is available for 10 cents.

Gas Firm Confronted By Big Annual Task; Test 14,000 Places

Two Gangs Of Men Engaged In City And District Testing Of Curb Boxes

The annual inspection of gas curb boxes in the city and vicinity has been started by the Manufacturers Light & Heat Company. The utility company will make rigid tests of the gas lines for leaks in order to make repairs where necessary before frosts set in, it was announced by D. W. Brown, agent in charge of the New Castle and Ellwood City districts served by the company.

A. M. Elder, foreman who is in charge of maintenance, estimates that the company will inspect 14,000 curb boxes. One third of the total number of inspections has already been finished, Elder said.

Two gangs of workmen, numbering 10 in all, are at present engaged in testing boxes on the North Hill, West Side and the East Side districts.

Americanism: Buying a machine made to run 100,000 miles; trading it in at 9,000 miles to get one with one more red stripe on the hood.

Shaw once said of himself: "Of course, I am a ruffian; but I am only ruffianly now—not-west. Though I am ruffianism, yet there is method in it."

The Shavian formula always has been to ridicule what the human race reverts, respects or admires. Shaw knows he is admired in America, hence the back-handed slap-in-the-face to the audience, by self-ridicule.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Volstead Vigilantes swooped down on twenty "shock houses" along the Bowery, an hour before noon the other morning, destroying countless bottles and kegs of "smoke" and sent 2,000 bums they found there in various stages of intoxication, scampering and shivering out into the chill October sunlight.

In one of the joints a wall-sign, prominently displayed, headed the intelligence: "Eye Openers 5 a. m. to 9 a. m. Sleepers Two Drinks," which meant that a couple of shots entitled the victim to snoozing space. Sprawled on the floor or slumped across tables, 200 poor devils, having paid the price, were courting temporary respite from the injustice of existence.

In another place smoky morals, bunched in essence, lined the walls. "Harry's Green Leaf," it was called—a popular hang out for those of The Last Legion who, once upon a time, lived among green fields and running brooks.

And back of the bar, in still another den, the Vigilantes came upon a set of false teeth filled with gold, several glass eyes and a great pile of shoes, overcoats and other wearing apparel—all taken in exchange for portions of "smoke."

"Smoke," the staple poison of the Bowers, retails there at ten cents a shot, or 25 cents an ounce.

HEAVY TRAFFIC.

Some of the Boob Bazaars along the Roo de la Quince have installed Marquis Marquises, who stand at the portcullis of each shop and with lazy lids greet the female shopper as she enters.

The Marquis Marquis has a faint air of perfume about him and a gardenia jabbed in his left lapel. And when, with a rising inflection, in a brand of Gaud-forsaken English that would bring tears to the eyes of a plain-clothes cop, inquires, "Ahnd Mah-DAHM, wishes she is about to be soaked all the traffic will bear."

WILLING TO PAY.

Some of the patchy, middle-aged Grand Dames who patronize certain Boob Bazaars at the portcullis, know in their hearts that the whole thing is a lot of hokey. But they're so hungry for the least bit of deference and courtesy in this raw, raucous, razor-edged era that they're willing to pay for it even at the hands of a sublimated flunkie at a shop door.

Posture Is Called Secret Of Health

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 4.—The secret of most of the good or bad health in the world is human posture, according to Norman Wallace Fradd, an authority on physical education, in an address to the girls of the Boston university's Sargent school of physical education.

"Coordinated effort has for its net result, perfection," said Fradd. "But it cannot be done without attention."

Fradd scored the present set-up exercises of the school room as entirely inadequate.

Most nerves, worries, and digestive troubles, appearing particularly in the thirties, are due to lack of healthy posture during youth, Fradd declared.

Auto Tour Of City Enjoyed

Hundred Forty Franklin Girl Reserves Visit Places Of Interest In City

Nineteen miles were covered by the 31 automobiles that carried 140 members of the Benjamin Franklin junior high school Girl Reserve club to a number of interesting points in New Castle and vicinity, on a sightseeing tour Monday evening after school.

The procession left the junior high school building shortly after 4 o'clock in automobiles furnished by faculty members, citizens of New Castle and undertaking establishments.

Among the places pointed out to the girls were—The New Castle News, the Cathedral, Jameson Memorial hospital, St. Mary's church, New Castle hospital, New Castle water plant, Lawrence County home, New Castle senior high school, George Washington junior high school, some of the principal churches and pretty homes of the residential districts.

Cars for the tour were furnished most graciously by—Kathryn McMillen, Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, Katherine Weir, Thelma Howell, Lois Kerr, Margaret Reher, Ruth Sample, Mary Scherger, Elizabeth Weingartner, Harriet Welch, Mrs. Clarence Donnan, Mrs. Clarence Patterson, Genevieve Houston, Elizabeth Mendenhall, H. L. McCurdy, Ray Marsh, John McGee, Dan Crappo, J. P. Denniston, E. N. Fisher and the Hodge, Book and Leyde, Boyd, Burke, Capitola, Offutt, Rice and Campbell undertaking establishments.

Motorcycle officers Ralph Crisswell and Charles Augustine accompanied the caravan of automobiles. The 19 mile trip proved to be most interesting and educative as well, for some of the girls had never seen a number of the public institutions of the city.

Success of the event was largely due to the planning and work of Miss Eva Coulter, chief faculty advisor to the Franklin Girl Reserve club. Miss Dorothy Baldwin, a member of the club and of the cabinet, all the guides and automobile donors also helped to make it the success it was.

The numbering of the automobiles was in the capable hands of Misses Wilma Kirof and Anna Mae Alexander.

Mrs. W. J. Caldwell, chairman of the Girl Reserve committee, helped greatly in securing the use of the many automobiles.

Model Plane Design, Construction To Be Introduced By "Y"

Craft Work At Institution Will Be Interesting Feature Of Activity

The latest in Y. M. C. A. boys' activity and craft club work, model airplane design and construction, will be inaugurated at the local "Y" on Armistice Day, it was announced today by W. A. Thomas, Boys' Work Director.

The new venture will hold interest to scores of boys who participate in club work. For some time there has been an increasing demand for craft club work in institutions throughout the country. The most modern of these is airplane building and construction work.

The local "Y" is now planning to take out a charter in the Airplane Model League of America. The new venture here will begin at 7 p. m. on November 11.

The purpose of the Airplane Model League of America is to interest and educate the youth of America in the science of aviation. This is being accomplished by directing their attention to the study of aeronautics, supplemented by a course in the building and flying of scientific model airplanes. The membership in the United States has reached the 300,000 mark.

Studies and the building of the following planes will be taken up: Baby R. O. G.; Seaplane; Amphibian; Pusher; Tractor; Indoor Model; Out Door Model; Flyer; Scale Model; Scientific Model; Fuselage Model.

Club headquarters here will be in the banquet room. Any boy is entitled to belong to the new club. A membership in the association is not necessary. A boy wishing to join the group will be given a card and pin free. Application for membership should be made with Boys' Work Director Thomas before the 11th.

Gets High Honor

MARY ALICE NEGLEY

Probably the highest academic honor which Thiel College has ever received was announced by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching at a meeting of representatives of Pennsylvania College at Harrisburg in October. At this meeting Thiel learned that Miss Mary Alice Negley had won the highest score in the state in the English examination given last May. At this time thirty-two colleges in Pennsylvania entered their students in a series of comprehensive examinations which took a week to give. The results have just been compiled and are being divulged by the Foundation. The aim of the tests was to discover the amount of knowledge actually in possession of a college-trained mind; to ascertain the practical ability of the student; to base a system of vocational guidance whereby the student may derive the most benefit from his college training.

Miss Negley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Negley, 407 New Castle Street, Butler, Pa. She is a graduate of the Butler High School in the class of 1926. At present she is a student at Columbia University where she is in pursuit of a Master's Degree in English.

Oil Is Struck Near Hillsville

Paying Well Is Drilled In On John Baird Farm By Bessemer Operator

Oil in paying quantities has been struck on the John F. Baird farm, a short distance south of Hillsville, by William Hedegore, Bessemer oil operator.

Both gas and oil were found in the first well shot several days ago and Mr. Hedegore is now putting down a second well which is expected to be drilled in shortly.

Gas and oil have been produced in Beaver township in paying quantities for a number of years, although no large producers have been found. The wells generally average from a barrel to two or three barrels, but are consistent producers.

Glitch was injured at the shop of Hoover & Newell, tanners, when a bench tipped from under him, throwing him heavily forward. When he threw out his arm to protect himself, the force of the fall snapped the bone in the upper part of his arm.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Saw something rather new for the ball room of the Castle last night when the ladies of the V. F. W. Auxiliary held their initiation of officers. The men of Post Harry L. McBride did also, but the color of the Auxiliary wasn't nearly so pronounced in the post initiation. You know how it is.

Not that it wasn't interesting. It was. But the ladies had a formal program of initiation worked out, all of them were garbed in white, and customers you should see those ladies break off a snappy salute. Wuff. Just like that.

The party was in charge of Commander Jimmy Bell whose term of office expired in the Vets, but who is now a district commander. Which is just like throwing one job out the window to take on five more. It was a real party, and they finished the thing up over at the Legion Home, with chow.

In the passing of old Uncle Davy Needler of Edenburg, the county has lost a picturesque figure. To me he typified the Civil War, for he had stood in the Bloody Angle, he had battled his way through the Rebel lines on many a Southern field, and when I thought of the Civil War, of Meade, or of Pickett, somehow old Uncle Davy was a part of the picture.

Now he's gone, and the thin red line of heroes dwindles one more. A remarkable old man, a year round optimist, a well of historical lore, and a friend.

The trucking companies seem to have competition. Saw a lad breezing down street the other afternoon with a wicker divan tied on to the side of the car. Porch furniture no doubt that won't have any more summer experiences for six or eight months.

Young People Rally In First Methodist

Epworth Leaguers Of District Have Rousing Rally Monday Evening In Church

Young Methodists to the number of 560 turned out Monday evening and filled the auditorium of the First Methodist church when they held their fall rally of the New Castle district. The church was divided into sections representing the various churches and each group had a banner with the name of their church on.

The churches represented were Euclid, the Savannah, Wampum, Mahoning, Epworth, First Methodist, Croton, church, the Italian Methodist, Wesley and Volant and such an enthusiastic group of young folks it would be hard to find.

Dr. W. A. Womer, president of the Epworth League, opened the service with a rousing song service that just seemed to stir up every bit of enthusiasm there was in the audience. The orchestra of thirty five pieces played so harmoniously that it seemed as if one great instrument was pouring forth the marches and special airs that started the feet tapping to their rhythm.

Excellent Program

A large chorus of nearly 100 voices filled the choir loft and their singing added to the pep of the meeting. Several orchestra numbers, chorus numbers and congregational singing filled in the musical program.

The Epworth League of the Epworth Methodist church had charge of the entertainment and a group of the young folks, with the assistance of Dr. Womer and Dr. S. L. Maxwell, presented a little playlet, "What the League Emblem Means." This was cleverly carried out by those taking part.

At the conclusion of the playlet Dr. Womer took the opportunity to thank all those who had taken part in making the evening so successful, the ones who arranged the various parts of the program were W. G. Ayers, who was responsible for the decorations; Milford and Harold Wright, who made preliminary arrangements in general; Ruth Buchanan, who planned the games, Mary Nunn, who arranged for the refreshments and Helen Emery, the secretary and treasurer.

Prudence Sankey and Leona Sankey, sisters, members of the Epworth group did a bit of clever entertaining, when dressed as colored women, they presented a little skit, "A Wash Out on the Line." There was clever acting in this, with the girls bringing in some really humorous jokes about the various members of the churches, which created much merriment and laughter among the audience.

Groups Entertained

The large crowd of young people was divided into groups of about 25 to 30 and each group entered a part of the building for play periods, at the sound of the whistle the groups changed, going to another room where another play leader had a different stunt arranged for their entertainment. Some novel forms of amusement were introduced by the different leaders.

At the conclusion of the play period, at the sound of the whistle, the groups reassembled in the auditorium and getting in line, were served light refreshments by the committee. The three deaconesses of the church were here, there and everywhere, seeing that every one was moving about smoothly and in perfect order. These three are Miss Eve Nicklin of the Croton church, who also asked the invocation at the opening of the meeting, Miss Beulah Magruder of the First Methodist church and Miss Schnacke of the Italian Methodist church.

(International News Service)
PONCA, CITY, Okla., Nov. 4.—Sinking testimony to the effectiveness of well directed advertising in American newspapers was given by an American industrial leader here today.

D. J. Moran, president of the Continental Oil company, announced that the management has just approved an advertising budget for 1931 running into seven figures.

The appropriation, which will be largely spent in newspapers, equals the largest previous advertising budget in the company's 56-year history—that of 1930 when the company used space in more than 1200 newspapers, in addition to farm papers, magazines and national radio network advertising. This year, 1931, newspapers will carry Continental advertising.

Vitality Necessary.
"The management of the Continental Oil company believes that advertising is a vitally necessary third arm of business, designed for use continuously, in good times and bad," said Moran.

"We believe that during 1931, prople will be born and die, work and play, marry and make homes, eat, sleep, ride in their motor cars—in fact, do all of the things that people normally do in the United States. If they do, they will need certain products and commodities. As far as we are concerned, the Continental Oil company expects to tell them of the merits of its products through advertising, and thereby create the desire to use our products. The executives of this company know that our advertising will accomplish this result, and that is why advertising is with us an indispensable business function instead of a gambling game to be indulged in when times are good, and abandoned when they are not so good."

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Nov. 4.—Percy Lalonde may take his rubber wings along next time he plays football. He almost drowned the last game he played.

Respiration methods such as are used on overcome swimmers were employed, and Lalonde finished the game.

NEW SCHEMES FOR BRIDGING CHANNEL

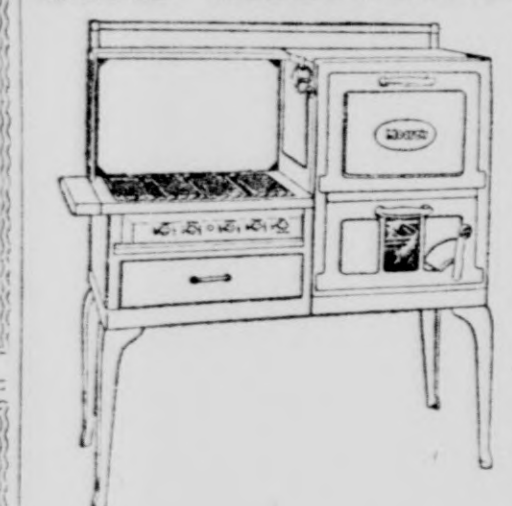

(International News Service)
PARIS, Nov. 4.—Inasmuch as the British government seems none too ready to authorize the construction of the channel tunnel the French are beginning to think up other schemes to shorten the crossing to the other side. A plan of a well-known engineer, Philippe Binau-Vareille, is called the "mixed passage" and proposes that the British and French railways leading to the Straits of Dover be prolonged into the sea for a mile or so by means of viaducts rising about 70 feet above high tide. A tunnel would be drilled only under the central portion of the Straits and trains would be lowered into it or raised up from it at either end in watertight elevators or inclined planes.

Newspaperman's Story Told In "One Man's Gold"

Chronicle Of The Days Of '49
Revealed As History Of
Washington Publisher

Pennsylvania has furnished the material and the setting for many books of history, biography and fiction and now it gives a son to that hectic period of almost 100 years ago when gold was discovered in California and there was a general exodus of young men from the East who sought wealth and adventure in the far West, little explored and less known. From the presses of Whittlesey House, McGraw-Hill Book Co., Inc., New York, comes a publication, "One Man's Gold—The Letters and Journal of a Forty-nine-year-old Enos Christman" compiled and edited by Florence Morrow Christman, secretary of the Department of Speech and Dramatics at Hunter College of the City of New York, a granddaughter of Enos Christman.

The book is of 278 pages and is well illustrated. Three-quarters of a century from the time when they were placed there by the hands of Major Enos Christman, the contents of a small tin box which has reposed in his old home in Washington, Pa., were investigated and found to contain the material which has been put into book form by his granddaughter.

Here is the story of that great army of fortune seekers, each of whom left home and a quiet life to plunge into the vortex of one of the world's maddest rushes for riches. Thousands took the Oregon Trail into the West while others, like Enos Christman, took the sea route.

It is styled the personal chronicles of the doings of Enos Christman yet it stands as the biography of almost every man who joined in the campaign of '49. The story of Enos is the story of the great majority of gold seekers. He never rose to more than indifferent success as a prospector, nor did many who joined him in that adventure.

Judged for its historical value "One Man's Gold" contributes a valuable and intimate chapter to the writings of that event and that period. From a literary standpoint it contributes much in the way of clean, clear and wholesome thinking, a style of writing characteristic of the period, yet couched in the words of an able writer and a Christian gentleman of keen perception, analytical mind, open convictions and a faculty of seeing all and being able to reduce the events to words.

Upon his return from California and his marriage to Ellen Apple the girl who had waited for him, Enos Christman moved to Washington, Pa., where he established The Commonwealth, a Whig newspaper and later merged it with The Washington-Pennsylvania Reporter, with which publication a Christman has been identified through all the intervening years.

His granddaughter has handled his story as she would have handled that of any other man, as any author would have handled a similar subject.

RUMANIA NOW HAS STAGE CENSORSHIP

(International News Service)
BUCHAREST, Nov. 4.—A strict stage censorship has been introduced in Rumania at the opening of the new season.

All new plays must be presented by the theatre managers at least five days before the scheduled first performance before a committee consisting of representatives of the ministry of education, the police and the Rumanian dramatic authors' society.

Not only the text of the plays must pass censure, but also settings, costumes and decorations fall under this rule.

North Street Work Completes City's Program For 1930

Largest Projects Of Year Were City-State Repaving
Contracts

As soon as North street has been repaved, all construction work by the city will have ended for 1930, according to City Engineer F. P. Miller who presented a list of jobs put through this year.

The biggest project was the state and city effort which resulted in repaving of Croton avenue, Grant street, and Butler avenue. Sewers were installed and Miller believes the cost in all will total about $110,000.

Of this sum the state allotted $76,000, derived from the state gasoline tax, to the city. New Castle paid for the intersections and also for the new sewers, the old ones in Butler avenue having been found faulty.

Furnace street was paved from the east right of way of the B. R. & P. to Moravia street by M. A. Mulcahy at a cost of $12,984.

Winter avenue sanitary sewer was built by Smith & McQuiston at the cost of the Day Realty company. It courses west of Wilmington avenue.

Morris street sanitary sewer was built by Burns & Ferry at a cost of $509.50. It runs between Balph avenue and Charles street.

North street between East and Neshannock was widened and is being repaved.

P. H. B. & N. C. rails and ties in Butler avenue were removed by a contractor and given him as payment.

M. A. Mulcahy removed the rails and ties in Stanton avenue and Cascade street at a cost of $300, to the city. He was given the material as part payment.

The city was severely handicapped for lack of funds, according to Engineer Miller.

Municipal authorities should be in good shape next year as the city has $70,000 in general revenue, secured from the sale of the city conduit system.

This money, according to councilmen, is to be spent next year for improvements of a permanent nature.

Ten Killed By Raiding Tribes

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Ten inhabitants of a Palestine border village were killed today by Wahabi tribesmen who crossed the Jordan frontier on a raiding expedition, according to dispatches to the London evening newspapers from Jerusalem.

OUTH IS KILLED BY FALL OF TOOLS

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 4.—Claire Fox, 9, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fox, of West Freedom, Clarion county, was instantly killed when a spring of tools fell upon his head and back, as he was assisting his father at an oil well in Madison township, near Sarah Furnace.

Fox was working under the floor of the drilling house, trying to attach a casing to carry off gas from the well. It is believed that the tapping of his hammer loosened the chain which held the tools suspended over him, and they crashed before he had warning.

When the father was able to hoist the tools to position and reach his son, the youth was dead.

PINCHOT AND HEMPHILL AWAIT VERDICT OF VOTERS

conflict, the other making his debut as a candidate for public office—will make political history, since a victory for either will shatter forty years of precedents in this state. It has been just that long since Pennsylvania either re-elected a former governor or chose a Democrat for that high office.

The outcome was in doubt, though both candidates and their official spokesmen shattered the welkins with the usual inflated predictions. Pinchot claimed his election was a certainty by several hundred thousand while Hemphill revealed a belief that he too would be elected by a huge majority. There seemed to be no last minute development, however, which would change earlier indications of an extremely close race.

Pinchot At Home.
Pinchot was at his home in Millford, Pike County, to cast his vote before motoring leisurely to Philadelphia to get the returns at his headquarters here. Hemphill stayed at his West Chester home to vote and hear the returns at the local armory.

Both men had a final word for the voters. Pinchot declared anew that his fight had been won and that W. W. Atterbury, bolting Republican national committeeman, and the "Philadelphia gang" were beaten. He said the taxpayers, the fare-payers and the rate-payers, would get a square deal during his administration and that his anticipated election would be a "victory for the plain people."

Hemphill, who spent Monday touring the anthracite districts in Schuylkill county, declared he had found the voters ready to "get rid of Pinchotism, Grundyism and Prohibition." He chuckled as a friend spoke of the "G. O. P." initiated symbol of the Republican party, as "Grundy Owns Pinchot." The nominee said he was convinced the "people of Pennsylvania are fully awake in this election" and that he awaited the returns "with greater confidence of victory than I have felt at any time during the campaign."

The third candidate in this extraordinary race, James H. Maurer, nominee of the Socialist party, spent the day at his office as a city commissioner in Reading. He had hopes of victory but renewed his prediction that Hemphill would win.

Many Bolters.
The outcome of the Pinchot-Hemphill contest was in doubt chiefly because of the bolting within the ranks of both parties. Hundreds of thousands of Republicans will scratch Pinchot and vote for Hemphill on the Liberal ticket. Hundreds of thousands of Democrats may likewise scratch Hemphill to cast their ballots for Pinchot. No prognosticator can tell exactly how many will bolt, so predictions are but guesses. Every compilation of neutral observations has placed the total vote of the two candidates within a few thousand of each other. Thus indicating how close the outcome should be.

Thus far, the campaign has been free of slush fund charges—a distinct innovation in recent Pennsylvania politics. Leaders of all four organizations, the regular Republicans, the Pinchot Republican group, the regular Democrats and the Liberal party, have complained of a lack of campaign funds. The Pinchot organization apparently benefited but little from the support of Joseph R. Grundy, noted lobbyist former senator and described once by Boise Penrose as the "greatest money-raiser in the world." On the other hand, the Liberal-Democrats apparently failed to obtain the large contributions they expected from public utilities and business men who oppose Pinchot.

There were numerous confusing factors on which the victory of either candidate depended. The asserted shortage of campaign funds may hurt Hemphill, since the Pinchot groups are better organized. On the other hand, many Republican leaders have given so-called "lip service" to Pinchot, while secretly opposing him.

Election In Doubt.

Other elements, placing the election in doubt, include low registration in cities friendly to Pinchot, the conflict of opinion over his strength in rural communities which are normally Democratic, the extent of bolting in both parties, and the decided disagreement over the size of Hemphill's anticipated majority in Philadelphia.

As for registration, some 3,522,510 men and women were eligible to vote today. This included more than a million farmers and their wives, who are automatically registered and so do not need to indicate a desire to vote by registering on a special day as urban dwellers must do. Few experts anticipate a vote much in excess of 2,000,000 while many have predicted it will be much less.

The campaign wound up in rather a blaze of political sharpshooting. The Liberal party published advertisements declaring "the eyes of the nation are on Pennsylvania" and declaring a "Pinchot victory would mean continued prosperity for the bootlegger, continued graft, crime, corruption, hypocrisy—resulting from the present prohibition law." These advertisements charged Pinchot with being an "enemy of the Republican party" and a "menace to business and employment."

The Pinchot organization published advertisements in Philadelphia, warning against election frauds and pointing out the large number of election officials given prison sentences for frauds in the past. The Pinchot committee declared "renewed prosecutions will be brought against all persons found to have violated the election laws or who conspired to violate such laws" and pointed out that ward leaders had failed to save the election workers previously convicted of fraud.

There were other outbursts from opposing leaders all over the state. In Pittsburgh, ballots were found missing in two election divisions. In Norristown there was a flareup between Pinchot leaders and the regular Republican organization. There T. Duncan Just, Pinchot leader of Montgomery county, announced that he knew "very little had been done" for Pinchot by Charles Johnson, the regular Republican leader. Just demanded that Johnson's organization produce a 20,000 plurality for Pinchot or there would be trouble later. This row may produce the Pinchot plurality or it may turn the county into Hemphill's column.

In Philadelphia, there were several last minute explosions. First, Mayor Harry A. Mackey ordered all city employees, some 14,000 in all, to report for work as usual today, in order to keep them out of the election, even though the day is a legal holiday. Then, Judge Harry S. McDevitt, who has put a number of dishonest election officials in jail upbraided the mayor for urging the election board to hurry their returns and for threatening to use city police in checking the boards. The judge termed this "intimidation" and told the boards to take their time.

A little of the civic enmity between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh probably accounted for another row between Senator Samuel W. Salus and the mayor. The senator charged that the mayor's order to local boards to hasten their returns was intended to "give Allegheny county a chance to steal the election for Gifford Pinchot." The mayor retorted that the senator was "guilty of palpable fabrication."

There, the campaign rested with the verdict in the hands of the voters.

(International News Service)

"Normal to heavy" balloting was reported throughout the commonwealth today as Pennsylvanians trooped to the polls to decide the issue in the most heated gubernatorial contest in decades.

Crisp, cool weather prevailed in practically all sections. In Philadelphia and the densely populated eastern portion of the state in general a threat of rain was noted. The threat was fulfilled just before ten o'clock when a slight downfall was transformed into a persistent drizzle.

The Central Pennsylvania region, from the anthracite belt to the eastern fringe of the Alleghenies, also reported overcast skies, presaging possible rainstorms later today. Materialization of rough weather would mean a corresponding decrease in the balloting.

In Western Pennsylvania, from the Alleghenies west to the Ohio border and from Lake Erie south to the West Virginia line, clear cool weather prevailed.

Pittsburgh, one of the "key" points in this bitterly contested campaign just closed, reported "normal to heavy" balloting. Pittsburgh (Allegheny county) has been conceded as a "key" point that Pinchot must carry by a large majority to offset the expected Democratic landslide in Philadelphia county.

Erie, another "key" county, likewise reported "Republican weather"—clear and cold—and a heavy balloting that seemed certain to bring out the heavy registration before nightfall.

In Westmoreland county, Greensburg also reported heavy voting. Early voting in Harrisburg was reported as "slightly heavier than normal" but the great rush of electors to the polls was not looked for until later in the day.

Normal balloting was also reported from Cumberland county, across the river from the State Capital.

Up in the anthracite regions, where the result is considered all-important, normal to slightly heavy voting was reported from scattered sections. Pottsville reported considerable activity at the polls. Throughout the greater part of the anthracite belt heavy balloting was looked for later in the day.

Balloting was especially brisk in the densely populated mill districts of Philadelphia during the early morning hours as factory workers attempted to cast their votes before starting the day's tasks. The balloting was mostly for Hemphill. Later in forenoon, however, as more women gathered in the lines before the polling booths much more Pinchot sentiment was heard.

In nearby Delaware and Montgomery counties, especially in the cities of Chester and Norristown, balloting also was reported brisk. The voting in the rural districts of Bucks, Berks, Chester, Montgomery and Delaware counties, however, was not so rushed. The number of citizens wishing to cast their votes speeded up towards noon.

Much "cutting" was noted in the early balloting in Allentown and sections of Lehigh county. The scratching of ballots appeared equally divided among the Democrats and Republicans and pertained chiefly to the gubernatorial race. Bethlehem and Easton and Northampton also reported much "scratching" of the two major tickets by "regular" Republicans and Democrats.

In Monroe county, the voting was also heavy in the early hours in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

nual Armistice Day proclamation played on all government buildings and inviting the people generally to observe the day, November 11, with appropriate ceremony.

"It is fitting that the anniversary of this day should be commemorated by exercises which shall do honor to all those who served our country, and especially to the memory of those who died in its service, believing that their sacrifice was in the cause of peace which we thereby are solemnly bound to do all in our power to advance and secure,"
the proclamation said in part.

Delaware Voters Test Prohibition

Delaware Voters For First Time Vote On Prohibition Issue At Polls

(International News Service)
WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 4.—
Delaware voters for the first time since the advent of prohibition registered their opinions about the law at the polls today. The issue was clear-cut. Daniel O. Hastings, Republican, of this city, is seeking to return to the U. S. Senate as a dry and former U. S. Senator Thomas F.
Bayard, Democrat-Liberal, also of Wilmington, is running as an out-and-out wet. He advocates repeal of the Volstead act and the whole liquor question returned to the states. An unexpired and a full term in the Senate are at stake.

Many Complications
There are many complications in the political fight in this, the second smallest state of the Union, that make predictions difficult.

There are Hastings-Democrats and Bayard-Republicans and the sudden formation of the Liberal party with its sole object of backing "Tom"
Bayard, wet Democrat, and Colonel
Le Fevre, wet congressional nominee, which further complicates the contest.

Claims of victory were heard from both sides. The Republicans contended their senatorial candidate would win by a majority of 5,000 to 10,000. The Democrats asserted
Bayard would win by 3,000 to 5,000 votes, pointing to the stiff race he had won in the primary election.

ran two years ago when he lost out in the Hoover landslide.

"Al" Smith lost the state by 23-000 votes, while Bayard was nosed out by only 6,000.

Crippled Newsman's Chair Delayed In Strange Manner

Hope That It Will Be Located
Some Time Today At Local Freight Office

Wheel chair ordered for Clarence Feree, crippled seller of newspapers and magazines, is said to be somewhere in the Pennsylvania R. R. but to date has not been located.
The local business house through whom it was ordered received notice from the local freight house yesterday that the chair was here and sent for it, but for some reason it could not be located yesterday or yet this morning, although it is somewhere in the hands of the local representatives of the railroad. It was hoped that it might be located this afternoon.

The fact that it will soon be in possession of Clarence is pleasing news to him and his many friends who donated to the fund to get it for him, especially as the old chair that he has been using collapsed yesterday and is now beyond repair. He was compelled to use an old invalid chair yesterday, which did in the pinch but which is not suited to his needs.

It is the hope of those in charge
to have Clarence operating his brand new chair, the best that money can obtain by tomorrow.

Jordan To Open Red Cross Drive

Plans For Annual Roll Call Will Be Made At Meeting Here Wednesday Evening

CAMPAIGN STARTS ARMISTICE DAY

Plans for the 14th annual Red Cross roll call will be gotten under way on Wednesday evening at a meeting of all county workers to be held in the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, when Hon. Charles G. Jordan, state secretary of agriculture, will be present to address the workers.

There has been a fine response to the call for workers throughout the county, and in the neighborhood of 75 district chairmen and workers from various sections of the county are expected out at the meeting on Wednesday evening.

Never in the history of the American Red Cross is the need for funds as urgent as at the present time. Continued disasters have depleted the treasury of the national organization, while the various local chapters throughout the country have been hard pressed for funds to take care of the ever growing need for relief among disabled veterans.

Last year was a particularly hard one, and the coming year is expected to prove even more critical.

In addition to those from the rural districts, who have supported the Red Cross in its roll calls for the past several years, residents of New Castle will be given an opportunity to subscribe by renewing the memberships they held in former years.

All persons interested in the welfare of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, are invited to attend Wednesday evening's meeting when final plans for the coming roll call will be discussed and supplies given out.

Shrewd Farmer In School Play

JOHN WHALEN

In the coming senior high school comedy "The Nut Farm" John Whalen will appear as Ezra Sliscomb, a farmer who is shrewd than ne looks. He is the kind of farmer that must have chin-whiskers. We prophesy that when John is on the stage he will be the center of attention even if an iron-gray wig covers his own radiant crest. He has been cast for a humorous, vigorous role.

National Guardsmen Who Participated In World War To Gather Next Summer

Arrangements are being completed for a reunion on the state military reservation at Mt. Gretna, of men who served with the 28th Division, Pennsylvania National Guard, in France during the World War.

The reunion is being sponsored by the Society of the Twenty-Eighth Division, A. E. P., with the aid of Adjutant General Frank D. Beary. According to present plans, the gathering will be held during the week in August which immediately follows the conclusion of the annual tour of field duty of active units of the National Guard.

Except for the cost of transportation to and from Mt. Gretna and the government charge for ration, the expense to those who attend will be small in view of the fact that General Beary has agreed to permit the use of tentage owned by the state for the quartering of the veterans.

Separate areas of the reservation for each of the various units will permit all those who served in the same companies and regiments to be quartered together.

Approximately 100 men from New Castle, former members of Troop F, were members of the 28th Division during the war, and will be included in the reunion plans.

WORKERS SAY THAT MID-AFTERNOON IS THEIR ZERO HOUR

Many Have Discovered That Food With Sugar Content Renews Vigor

Rare indeed is the business that does not call for more speed from mid-afternoon on. Stenographers, clerks and salespeople will testify to this. Yet vitality is invariably low at this important period.

Scientific tests have proved that eating something between three and four o'clock will refresh the system almost as much as complete rest. The best food to eat is one rich in refined sugar such as candy, cookies, ice cream or a sweet beverage. The refined sugar not only supplies quick nourishment but is easily digested.

In overcoming fatigue by this method, the system is able to resist those common colds which are often "caught" on the way home. What's more, a refreshed body is much more efficient during the busy afternoon hours than one that is "tired out."

With no loss of time and practically no expense, sweet foods can be bought for a mid-afternoon snack. Sugar dissolved in a glass of water will "pick one up." This drink is known as the "athlete's cocktail." Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with refined sugar. The Sugar Institute.

38. Daniel Boone—The Attack On Bryant's Station

CORNWALLIS' SURRENDER TO WASHINGTON AT YORKTOWN, OCTOBER 19, 1781, VIRTUALLY MARKED THE END OF THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR, BUT INDIANS AND TORY RANGERS CONTINUED TO RAID THE KENTUCKY SETTLEMENTS. IN THE SUMMER OF 1782 A LARGE BAND OF REDSKINS ATTACKED BRYANT'S STATION.

WARNING OF THE ATTACK CAME JUST IN TIME. ALL THE SETTLERS MANAGED TO GET INSIDE THE STOCKADE, BUT IN THE RUSH FOR SAFETY WERE FORCED TO LEAVE THEIR STOCK OUTSIDE.

THE INDIANS MADE A DETERMINED ATTACK UPON THE STATION, BUT WERE FINALLY BEATEN OFF AFTER A HOT FIGHT THAT LASTED ALL DAY.

Notre Dame-Penn Battle Features In East-Michigan To Play Harvard

GREAT CONTESTS ARE EXPECTED

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Like a giant dragon with a mean and hungry look in his pale green eyes, though searching for bigger and better victims, old man football today climbed atop the tallest college spire and in a vociferous shriek heard from New York to California zoomed the message—"You ain't seen nothing yet!"

And then in ill-concealed delight, the relentless and ever-seeking wrecker of the high and mighty announced next Saturday's football card, topped by such classics as Notre Dame versus Penn at Philadelphia, Georgia versus the New York University in New York, Michigan versus Harvard at Cambridge and Alabama versus Florida at Gainesville.

With hardly less glee the old gentleman who collects his toll wilyly every Saturday afternoon smacked his lips over the clashes bringing together Columbia and Colgate in New York, Pitt and Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, University of Southern California and California at Los Angeles, Detroit and Fordham at Detroit, Army and Illinois in New York City and Navy and Ohio State at Baltimore.

In fact all of the powerful teams of the nation are taking on important foes this week with the exception of Dartmouth who plays Allegheny, a small but undefeated college; Northwestern, engaging Indiana and Yale, picking on Alfred.

Syracuse-Penn State
That good Syracuse outfit which rose to the heights last week to tie the Brown machine will play Penn State at State College. Princeton meets Lehigh at Princeton and unbeaten Marquette will battle Iowa at Milwaukee.

Out there on the flowery slopes of the Pacific Stanford mingles with Washington at Palo Alto and there will be no blanket of carnations on the field when the battle is ended.

In the South in addition to titanic drama which Bama's big power house will unfold with Florida, the team that tied unbeaten Georgia, Georgia Tech versus Vanderbilt at Atlanta, Southern Methodist versus Texas A&M at Dallas, Baylor versus Texas A&M at Dallas, Baylor

Fidel LaBarba Wins Over "Kid" Chocolate

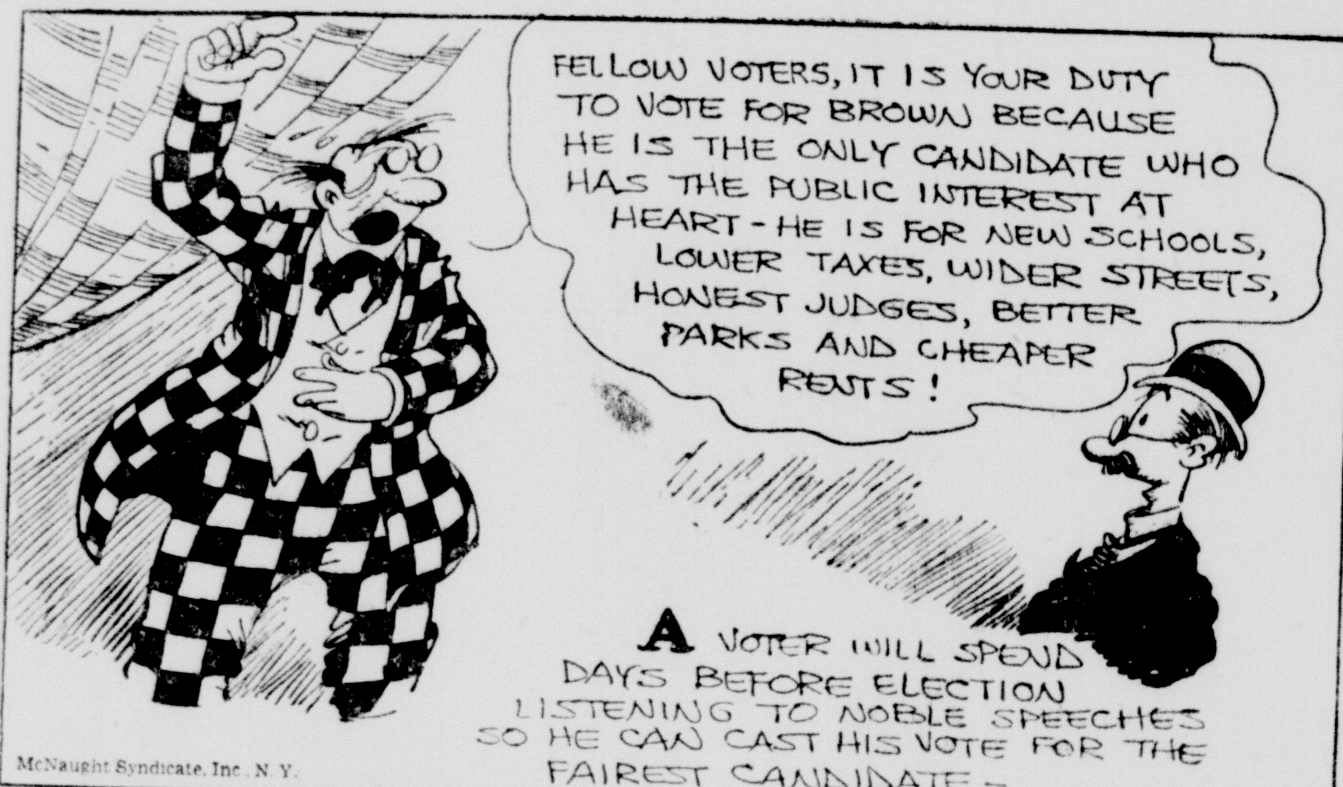

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Fidel LaBarba was so happy today that he laughed and cried by turns. Even as he laughed, it was a strange mixture of joy and enthusiasm.

It is something to hang a defeat on Kid Chocolate's door, and Fidel certainly nailed one there last night. The coast fighter took at least five rounds, Chocolate won three and two were even. Some thought LaBarba won six rounds.

The decision was well received by a crowd of about 50,000.

A Southern statesman declares that President Coolidge got all the breaks and didn't make any. (The Montana Standard (Butte).)

MAKING UP A VOTER'S MIND

Three Freshmen Stars On Westminster Team

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 4.—Three freshmen who have won their spurs on this year's Westminster College football team are Alan Harper, Zelenople, halfback; Cronwell Ketterer, Rochester, halfback, and Charles Myler, New Castle, end.

Harper and Ketterer have supplied the needed scoring punch with their speed and ball carrying ability. Myler, who has seen action at end in four of the five games played, should develop into one of the best terminals the Titans have had.

In addition to these three men, Glenn Shaffer, quarterback, adds another bit of glory to the freshman class at Westminster. Shaffer leads in scoring with four touchdowns and four points after touchdowns for 23 points.

Coach Layden may shift his lineup somewhat for the game Friday.

Thiel College after taking a lacer here last week from Wash-Jeff will go down to Bethany, West Virginia on this coming Saturday to do battle with a much abused Bison eleven. The Bethany team has been licked plenty this year and the writer cannot see any hope for them beating Thiel especially with Wardle and McClure doing their stuff.

Coach Layden has been having a lot of tough luck with the Bisons this year. Injuries have been a thing and another, but he hopes to have them going at top speed against the Lutherans.

Grove City College seeing red after that defeat handed them at Meadville by the strong Allegheny team last week, will take a jaunt down to Waynesburg this coming Saturday to meet the Yellow Jackets.

The Waynesburg team generally plays good football against the Grovers, and the victories stand about even for a span of years. Coach Berry has promised a lot of shakeups for this week if the results are not a little better. Injuries have crippled the Grovers somewhat, but most of the boys are on the mend now.

Allegheny College with a string of unbroken victories will undoubtedly join the list of defeated this week when they go to Hanover, New Hampshire, and tussle with the undefeated powerful Dartmouth eleven. The Alleghenies have always given the big Green team a real engagement and there are several who openly predict that the Dartmouth team is going to find the Meadville's tough hoppers this year. Allegheny's latest victim was Grove City. Coach Maude Crum is going to instill a lot of fight into the team this week.

Duquesne University will have North Dakota University as the menu for Friday night at the Forbes Field well-lighted ball park. The North Dakotans took a wallop at West Point on Saturday, but they have a strong team and will give the men of Layden a tough engagement. North Dakota has been beaten very little this year. The Army has a powerful team and the boys from the Mid-West didn't really expect to beat the Cadets.

High Team Has Light Workout

Locals Start Training For Next Game With Rayen High On Saturday Afternoon

Rayen Expects To Avenge For Defeat Handed Them Here Last Season

Following its easy victory over the Rochester high team on Friday night the New Castle high school squad started training for Rayen high which will be played next Saturday afternoon at Youngstown. The practice session on Monday at Taggart field was a light affair with signal drills taking up most of the time.

The entire New Castle squad came through in good condition. The boys went through signal drills for over an hour after which they called it a day. This afternoon's workout will probably be another light event.

The Youngstown aggregation this season has a fair team. Training at the Ohio camp started on Monday. It will be remembered that the New Castle boys sent the Rayenites back with a defeat last season and according to dope Rayen will be out to even things up.

The contest will probably start at 2:30. Tickets for this game have been placed on sale at the Sporting Goods store on East Washington street. Four sections are being reserved for New Castle fans who accompany the red and black eleven to Youngstown Saturday.

Seniors Defeat George Washington

Class League Game Takes Place At Taggart Field On Monday, Score 19-7

Senior class football team of the high school proved too much for a small George Washington junior high eleven in a game played at Taggart field on Monday afternoon. The final score favored the senior high boys, 19-7.

The winners scored their touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods. George Washington came through with its tally in the final minutes of play when Lane intercepted a pass on his 35-yard line and brought the ball to the 5-yard line. The seniors drew a penalty here for unnecessary roughness and the ball was placed on the 1-foot line where Huffner plunged over the goal line.

The seniors scored their first touchdown in the first quarter thru a series of line plunges and a 25-yard run by Herbold who took the ball over. The second came in the third quarter when James Herbold intercepted a pass and ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Chambers scored the last tally from the 12-yard line after his team mates had brought the ball there through line plunges and several passes.

For the seniors the playing of Herbold, Chambers and McGoun featured. For the George Washington team Lane in the backfield and Herbold and Battley on the line were the best. Todd, playing his first game at center for George Washington, made a creditable showing.

The summary follows:
Seniors 19 Geo. Washington 7
Williams.....L. E.....Howley
Synder.....L. T.....McClelland
Fulkerson.....L. G.....White
Fairair.....C. C.....Todd

Marcella And Croton Leading Indies League

With the grid season practically over, the time is nearing to decide the "champs" in the different divisions. In New Castle the Independent League which has throughout the season interested quite a number is a close race. The Marcella eleven from the South Side and Croton are the two leaders.

The Marcellas have captured 5 games and have yet to be defeated upon while the Crotonites have won 4 contests and hasn't lost any. Both elevens have played the leading teams in the city and have been victorious. The only thing left to do now is for these two aggregations to play each other and the winner will be hailed the Independent champs.

Both teams have powerful elevens. Marcellas have scored 92 points and have not been scored upon while the Crotonites have scored 67 points and have scored upon once. The game to decide the champs could be played some Saturday afternoon and would draw a fair crowd.

The meeting between these two teams will be the tenth in five years. Croton won three of these games, Marcellas 3, and 3 ended in ties.

Following is the standing of the clubs according to Fred Marcella's Team:

Marcella.....W. L. Per

Willie Davies Is Defeated By Bell

Brooklyn Bantamweight Takes Nod Over Charleroi Mite In Pittsburgh

Willie Davies, popular little flyweight from Charleroi, who has appeared many times at the Jolly bowl, and always gave the fans their money's worth, met his match last night in Motor Square Garden, Pittsburgh, dropping a decision to Archie Bell of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Davies the clever little scrapper that he is, gave away flesh last night meeting a bantamweight fighter, and put up a good battle, but the papers say that Davies took a boxing lesson. It was a new experience for Pittsburgh fans to see Davies on the losing end. Davies went well until the sixth round when he weakened. Davies was on the floor but once, in the final round when he went down on one knee, but was up again like a flash fighting hard.

A report is prevalent that Ben Loeffler, pro and manager of the Valley Heights Country club has resigned.

Gene Tunney made $2,000.00, according to reports from New York, where Gene is defendant in a $435,000 breach of contract suit brought by Tim Mara, who claims he helped to arrange the first Dempsey-Tunney fight in which Gene captured the heavyweight crown.

Franklin, Pa., boxing promoters would like to secure a good 140-pound boxer for Armistice night card, according to word sent here yesterday.

Louis Severio, who fought Wildcat Auskins here, knocked out Joey Coogan, Cleveland, in the first round at Meadville last night. Joey Thomas, Pittsburgh, and Pete Mazzo, Cleveland, went to a six-round draw.

Sankey Speaks In Ellwood City

Talks On "Safety" To Members Of Kiwanis At Meeting Monday

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 4.—In dealing with his favorite topic of "Safety" C. E. Sankey, general manager of the safety department of the National Tube Company told the Kiwanis at their dinner meeting last night that they were great wastes.

"Too much time spent in pessimism, too much energy wasted on fear, and not enough optimism, is what is bad for good business, was the summary of his discussion which was listened to with interest by these club members.

"The greatest calamity is wasted effort," said Mr. Sankey, in continuing. "We dwell too much on the wrong things." No successful business is run without a certain amount of waste, which we must watch and cut down. Honesty with ourselves is the first move in removing this waste. Take an inventory of yourself. Not from the exterior, but from the heart. After you have become the man whom you can respect then decorate. But first find out wherein lies the waste and remove it. There is no man in business today who does not have waste material which at some time or another might be just the thing which is going to be his downfall.

Seventy-five manufacturing plants which have come into business during the last seven years failed. Why? because they failed to take inventory and allowing the waste to accumulate, it ate up their profits. They were not taking safety into consideration.

Mr. Sankey who has made safety talks before thousands of men, always brings fresh subjects into his address. For years he worked in the local works as safety director and at which time the local mill won several records for no accidents. Although he now has offices in Pittsburgh he remains loyal to his friends in Ellwood and is ever received into the club circles of his friends with a welcome hand.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrown nail reduces inflammation and pain and so softens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost overnight.

He learned many of his tricks on this corner and invariably tells a story about "Fourth and Oak" streets during a performance.

versus Texas at Waco and Tulane versus Auburn at New Orleans are carded.

Chicago-Purdue
Chicago must face Purdue at Chicago and Wisconsin may have a breather in South Dakota State at Madison. Missouri plays Iowa State at Columbia and Michigan State has North Dakota State at East Lansing.

Utah, unbeaten and with a formidable record, opposes Colorado College at Salt Lake City. Kansas, the team that blew up against Penn last week end, has an engagement with Nebraska at Lawrence.

Williams plays Wesleyan. Villanova has Bucknell and Rutgers will test Lafayette among the smaller schools in the East.

Philadelphia, Cambridge and New York City will draw the big Eastern crowds this week. A mob of nearly 80,000 fans was expected to watch the Irish and Penn at Franklin Field and in New York capacity crowds were looked for at the P. U. Grounds, scene of the Georgia-N. Y. U. tilt and at Yankee Stadium, where the Army will shake hands with Bob Zuppke's boys. The Columbia-Colgate game will be staged at Baker Field and is attracting wide interest, due to the fact that Columbia surprised even itself last Saturday by turning back lechrymose Gil Doble's Cornell machine.

After a slow start, Michigan has developed a splendid team and the Harvard match will be the big event of the day in New England.

Spying On Sports

By WILLIAM RITT Central Press Sports Editor

The test of mid-western football which, up to this writing, has been definitely superior to the game played in the east this season, comes Saturday, November 8.

On that day the grid battalions of the central states must defend their standing on all fronts but one. Not a big edge, but one that should grow to much greater proportions Saturday.

The central states have so far this season won 10, lost seven and tied in three intersectional matches. Not a big edge, but one that should grow to much greater proportions Saturday.

The mid-west's score sheet against the east looks very, very good (if you are a mid-westerner). Mid-west teams have scored six wins (three by Notre Dame) and lost but two battles to aggregations from the Atlantic seaboard.

Against the south the mid-west has an even showing—two wins, two losses, one tie.

Against Pacific coast, the mid-west has the wrong end of the balance sheet. The coast has one win, no loss, one tie.

PAINTER KILLED BY TURPENTINE FUMES

SHARON Pa., Nov. 4.—John Yereb, 25, was found dead this afternoon, the victim of asphyxiation from turpentine fumes. County Coroner William J. McGrath is conducting an investigation, but said no inquest will be necessary.

Yereb was painting the interior of a vacant house adjacent to his own home. He was using turpentine as a drier for the paint.

When Mrs. Yereb did not see her husband about the vacant residence for some time she went to see if he was still at work. She found his body on the floor. The death is the first of its kind on record in this county, according to Coroner McGrath.

Alaska Pictured As Comfortable Place During Summertime

Attorney Walter S. Reynolds Makes Address At Lions Session At Noon

All the charms of that northernmost possession of the United States, Alaska, were gloriously unfolded before the Lions club at their meeting at the Elk's home today by Attorney Walter S. Reynolds, this city, who issued three months on exploration ere back in 1919.

"The Alaskan territory, which is a-fifth the size of our country, is often thought of as a strictly rigid and barren land," Mr. Reynolds explained. "But such an impression is entirely wrong. I crossed the arctic circle in my shirt sleeves when the thermometer hovered at 3 degrees."

After pointing out that Alaska is arm in the summer time, a place here hundreds of varieties of flowers grow, the speaker informed that it does get bitter in the winter time. He discussed in full the primitive conditions under which they lived while there.
